

Archon

Archon '74

A seven week teachers' strike; grade twelve and thirteen rivalry; several streakers; nostalgic sock hops; another all-Canada science fair winner; a successful King Karnival – these are only some of the events that made the 1973-74 school year unique. Never before have I seen so much effort put towards KCSS by staff or students. The Archon has had its share: Rick's witty caricatures with a whiff of sarcasm; and the tremendous number of outstanding photographs by Henry and Nick. Archon '74 endeavours to reflect the spirited atmosphere of this year and maybe encourage next year's KCSS inhabitants to create a comparable one for themselves.

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

We have come through a very difficult year. Classes were interrupted for an extended period of time and a variety of programmes have been somewhat affected. In consequence, the final months of the school year have been more demanding than usual to both staff and students. However, with positive effort, we have achieved positive results.

We have initiated new programmes such as the Russian trip. Established events, such as the "King Karnival", continue to grow and we all delight in the combined efforts of our art and music departments.

Personally, I am most pleased because of the continued increase in student participation. Through your efforts, and your participation, King City Secondary School will continue to grow and mature.

Teacher Strike

Leicestershire board won't open schools
if York region students during strike

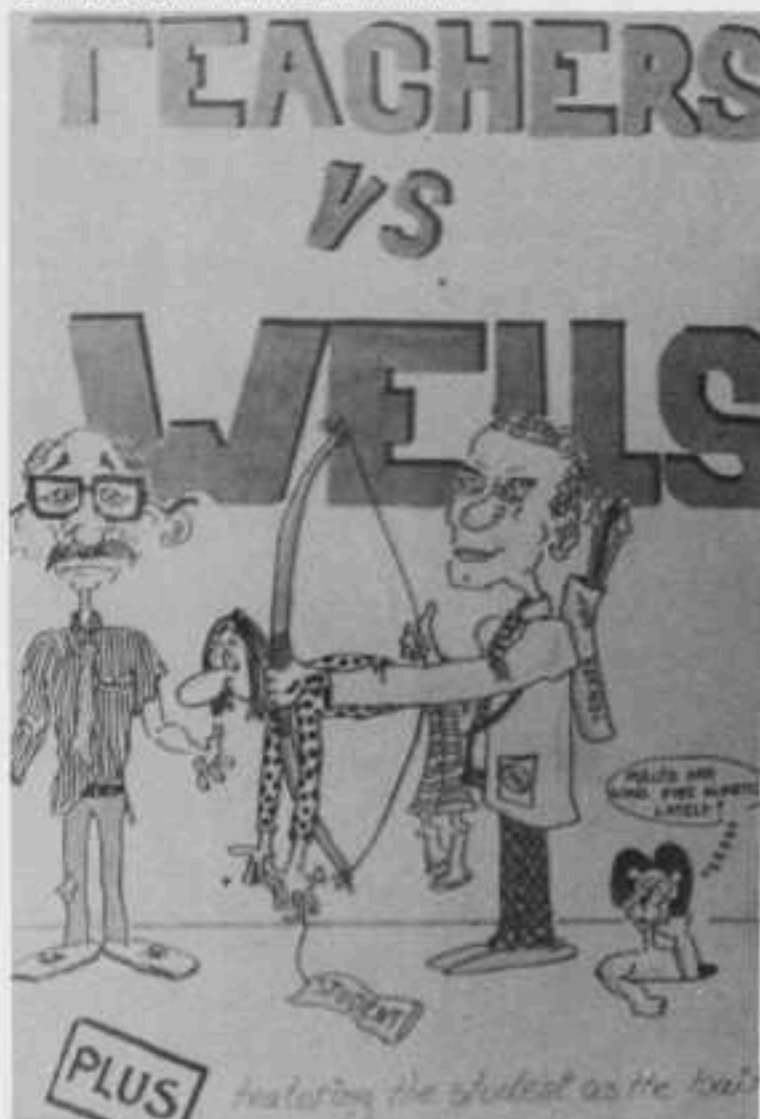

The strike was a result of a stalemate between teachers and board members on these main issues: a grievance procedure, tenure for competent teachers, stabilization of student-teacher ratio at 1972-1973 levels, and a realistic salary grid. While teachers conferred daily at the Newmarket Legion to gain moral support and to plan action, most students took a holiday or went on numerous field trips. After a few weeks though, some began to worry about possibly repeating the year. A Student Action Committee

Feb. 1-Mar. 25

ISAC) was formed by Kathy Hughson, Nick Papandreou and others. Through chain phoning, 300 kids came to the school and signed petitions supporting their teachers. A meeting was then scheduled with teachers and board members present. Two streakers turned up at an excellent moment-breaking off a long-winded Board member! Finally both sides accepted arbitration with these results: salary increase from 15%-24%, stabilized PTR (17.5-11), a grievance procedure and prohibition of strikes.

IN MEMORY William C. Wilson Technical Director of King City Secondary School 1961-1974

Ah, yes, we'll remember him well: - as a colleague

Wm. Wilson above all was an honest teacher who gave full measure to each of his students.

Mr. P. Christie

Bill was, above all, a gentle human being. His thoughtfulness was obvious to all who knew him.

M. Tilston

When I first came here as a young teacher I spent much time looking at others to form my opinions of what a teacher should be.

Bill Wilson was to me the absolute image of the joy of teaching.

Carl Mulcahy

A man who kept his cool, and whose philosophy was to take it easy. A joy to listen to, because he thought long and hard before coming to an opinion.

Mr. F. Marsh

Life was much more enjoyable if Bill Wilson was your friend.

Bob Sanderson

Bill was a man of principle and integrity. His views were always respected and were always a moderating influence on those with radical ideas. However, once he recognized injustice, he never failed to speak up - these are qualities the world today can ill afford to lose.

K. Pattison

To me Bill Wilson was more a friend than colleague. He was a great human being.

P. Gallagher

- as a teacher

It is difficult to express the feelings felt by the students at the loss of Mr. Wilson. The halls of K.C.S.S. will echo the loss for many years to come.

Always willing to go out of his way to lend a hand. We, the students feel not only the loss of a teacher but the loss of a friend.

Student Council Elections

This years' elections were a struggle between the Grade 12 and 13's. There was an active campaign - Steve (above right) held a vehement speech and threw a rubber duckie at the 13's (symbolically). He was dully punished, but all Gr. 12 candidates were elected.

CLASS REPS

Due to technical difficulties, pictures were unsuccessful.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE 1973-1974

This year has been an eventful one. Perhaps we endured through one of the greatest crises ever. Even though we lost a month of school, we rebounded to complete a satisfactory term.

We had many events this year and being a cohesive group, we pulled them off with great success. Yet there are still many who are on the outside looking in. Those people are the ones which must be brought in as well to make even greater unity.

My thanks to Karen, for a great job as Vice, to Sandi, Steve and Elaine. Plus a thanks to all the others who helped with council matters.

King City has always been great, in sports and scholastically. We have a tradition of winning, good spirit and great students. I hope we have upheld it this year.

For the future, I hope King City will always be able to keep up the traditions it has upheld in previous years. Even more, I hope it becomes more mature and strives for larger and more prestigious things, to compliment its already great past.

Grade 12 Drafting Boys - Wayne Peterson, Pete Pynenberg, Jim Schneider, Steve Kitras, Ken Bolton, and John Zanchetti - applied their (obviously) excellent abilities in building this model of City Hall, directed by Mr. Roberts.

KCSS Sock Hops

This was the year of the sock hop — everything from a Sock-a-thon to afternoon 'hopping' sessions. Mr. Ellison and Mr. Smith (alias Commander Tom and L.J., the D.J.) presided as rousing disc jockeys. The sock-a-thon — nonstop dancing for 8 hours — was won (in terms of funds raised) by Cindy Payne.

CHRISTMAS

WAITING

We are the last of our line,
There are few yet to come.
We talk about those who have gone before,
And we await our chance to see the sun.

We think of places to see;
Of Places to hear,
While we listen and write
And know the time is not near.

--How long is it now, that before we can go,
To leave our place of known?
Before we can leave the dying moan
Of those who wish not to see us go?

But alas, we must wait,
For in the end, our knowledge will be great!
But if in between, we think that something has died,
We should not ask how; But go into the world to find out why.

I'VE GOT A NAME

Like the pine trees lining the winding road,
 I've got a name, I've got a name.
 Like the singing birds and the croaking toad,
 I've got a name, I've got a name.
 And I carry it with me like my Daddy did,
 But I'm living a dream, that he can't live.
 Rolling me down the highway, Rolling me
 down the highway, Rolling along so life won't pass me by.

Like the North wind whistling down the sky,
 I've got a song, I've got a song.
 Like the whippoorwill and the baby's cry,
 I've got a song, I've got a song.
 And I carry it with me and I'll sing it now
 If it gets me nowhere, I'll go there proud . . .
 Rolling me down the highway, Rolling me
 down the highway, Rolling along so life won't pass me by.

And I'm going to go there free . . .
 Like the fool I am and I'll always be,
 I've got a dream, I've got a dream,
 They can change their minds but they can't change me . . . I've got a dream, I've got a dream.
 But I know I can share it if you want me to,
 If you're going my way - I'll go with you,
 Rolling me down the highway, Rolling me
 down the highway, Rolling along so life won't . . . pass me by.

Thoughts

Love,
like a soft petal of rain,
lost in a forest of roses,
blossoming to form,
the threshold of a dream,
Feelings of tenderness,
once enclosed within the chrysalids of understanding have now dissipated.
Myriads of painted faces,
rush across the mind,
searching,
for the children,
that were once securely wrapped,
inside the enclosed petals of our love.

Val Burda

WHISPERS

When you turn and whisper to the person
beside you,
It's not that you don't want anyone else
to hear,
Or that you don't want anyone to know you're talking.
It's just that you think that that person is special,
And is enough of a person to hear.

Lisa Norrie 9G

Friends are needed for happiness, for joy, as a companion,
Without friends you would be unhappy, sad & troubled.
With nothing enjoyable to do,
So keep everyone happy, be nice, be friendly; also to those different from you.

Laura Michelin 9F

For Beth Sutton — "Our Friend"

The paths of life must part so soon...
With angel's wings you fly
Beyond your realm of friends,
To hazy dreams
in skies unknown.
Your brightness shines through eyes that mirror a soul
of faith... and joy,
And like a favourite book of poems,
you touch hearts
lost in loneliness,
Swaying tears to smiles,
And all... to friends.
So waste no tears on those you leave behind,
For we become the words
Of a beautiful page of life...
Turned forever... yet never gone.
And as you fly away through time,
We wish you love, and joy, and peace,
And you leave us memories,
Forever lingering on.

PLEASE DON'T LOCK THE DOOR

Why is it that he Struggles?
We only wish to please
We cannot understand him
What is it that he sees?

Why is it that they damn me?
The choice was not in greed
To fulfill the dreams of others
Is what I really need.
Why can't I be guided
I do not wish to fight
The rules do not help me
They only block the light

Four walls,
Always four walls,
solid and bleak.

Holding me and everything in Letting nothing out
Not even a small message from the imprisoned, within.

One can survive
only so long,
alone.
And time is short.

I've always wanted to have a car
To get a girl and go to a bar
Just jump right in and let it fly
But watch out closely or you will die
But if you ever get stopped by a cop
Just keep it cool don't blow your top
But if you are going away too fast
You better watch out or your body won't last.

"Natasha"

by Sue Skerratt 10H

Her well-written short story won Sue Skerratt an honourable mention in the Canada Permanent Trust Co. Writing Contest. An excerpt from "Natasha" follows. So far the author has described the life of a little girl named Simone in a big family. Her father has hired governess Natasha to take care of Simone. Various incidents are described in little six year old Simone's life. We take the story up to when Natasha dies and Simone is 10.

I supposed that I wouldn't have seen her again if it hadn't been for Greg. It was his idea that we sneak down the flight of stairs to the den and take a last look. It was 2 a.m. when we held our moonlight ceremony. It was hard to believe that the still figure in the thin white dress trimmed in lilac lace and the soft, curly hair twined around a corsage of violets, was going to be lowered into the frosty mud. Greg reached out to take her hand. Suddenly I saw him go pale.

"What's the matter?" I whispered.

"She... she's got a hold of my hand!"

"Oh, come on, Greg. Don't be smart."

"I'm not joking, Simone," he hissed in panic. "She tightened her hand around mine! Oh, please, make her let go!"

Still positive that he was joking, I took hold of his arm and pulled. I went cold. The grey fingers were rigid and clinging like steel clamps. Greg clenched his teeth. It didn't hurt him as much as it frightened him. I tried to think quickly. Greg grabbed my arm with his free hand and squeezed it with urgency. I picked up the skirt of my cumbersome nightdress and raced for the kitchen. Along the south wall was an assortment of meat cleavers from small to huge. I heaved the largest off the hook and dragged it to the den. I knew I didn't have the strength to cut through the arm on my own, but if I simply lifted the cleaver above it, the weight of it would produce enough force to sever the arm.

I lifted it and let it fall across her wrist. The first time I got the bone. The second time the hand fell to the carpet. It released its hold on Greg's trembling hand and lay quivering.

"What are we going to do with it?" Greg finally found his voice.

"Bury it."

"Now?"

"Well..." I sighed. It was hopeless. Someone would find out. Then we'd really get it.

"I know. We could hide it in the meat cellar."

Simone has an inherent macabre yet delightful personality with great imagination. The death grip was due to rigor mortis, but Simone's active mind and sense of drama invent other tales about it. The story ends with a high-pitched horrifying scream as someone discovers the missing "member."

MY MADONNA

I haled me a woman from the street,
Shameless, but, oh, so fair!
I bade her sit in the model's seat,
And I painted her sitting there.

I hid all trace of her heart unclean;
I painted a babe at her breast:
I painted her as she might have been
If the Worst had been the Best.

She laughed at my picture, and went away.
Then came, with a knowing nod,
A connoisseur, and I heard him say:
" 'Tis Mary, the Mother of God."

THE STREAK

Hello everyone this is your action news reporter with all the news that is news across the nation on the scene at the supermarket ... there seems to be some disturbance here ... Pardon me Sir, Did you see what happened?

Ya I did, I was standen over thar by the tomatas and here he come running through the pole bate, through the fruit and vegetables, 'NAKED AS A JAYBIRD' and I hollered over to Ethel ... "DON'T LOOK ETHEL!" It was too late - she'd already been incensed.

Chorus:

HERE COMES

(Look it that, Look it that)

THERE GOES

(Look it that, Look it that)

And he ain't wearin no clothes
Oh yes ... they call him the streak

(Look it that, Look it that)

Fastest thing on two feet

(Look it that, Look it that)

He's just as proud as can be, his anatomy
He's gonna give us a peek,

Oh Yes, ... they call him the streak

(Look it that, Look it that)

He likes to show off his physique

(Look it that, Look it that)

If there's an audience to be found, he'll be streaking around by the public critique.

VALEDICTORY SPEECH

Tonight I would like to talk about high school, not in general terms, but about this high school in particular.

Each of us here has his own thoughts and feelings about King City Secondary School - many of which are voiced loudly in the halls during any school day. There were many complaints over school policies that are disagreeable to a large segment of the students - for instance the lack of school outings, the attendance system or the dress code, to name a few. I feel personally that these were not just meaningless "gripes" but real concerns that a number of students wished to work out. Unfortunately, there always seemed to be a "nothing can be done" atmosphere that discouraged any meaningful action being taken.

True, King is a very young school that may yet be experiencing growing pains, but I don't believe that this should stand as an excuse for any problems that are present.

With co-operation on both sides, King could be made into an institution that would be more satisfying to both the students and the administration. To this end I'd like to make a plea first to the students to take an actual interest in the school and try to constructively change the things that you disagree with, and also to the administration to try to listen to any ideas presented. But remember, an agreeable solution to any problem can be found much easier if the two opposing factions try to see the other side.

But of course, a number of us here won't be back to worry about these things. Many are out working for a living and by now are probably wishing that they were back in school. Still others are continuing their education, which in some cases is reminiscent of high school - grade nine, that is. That sinking feeling of being twenty minutes late for a class and being totally lost returns to haunt you once again.

I hope that this year's grade 13's have as good a time as we did. I'm sure many of last year's graduates will join me in encouraging you to carry on the mission in the library - that of driving a certain librarian (who shall remain nameless) absolutely berserk.

We were reminded countless times last year by Mr. Eckersley that because we were the seniors, it was imperative that we set a good example, and we did not fail him. Good examples of your basic, hard-working, serious-minded student could be found everywhere.

Academic-wise, we were unsurpassed, and could often be observed gathered around and discussing such great literary works as Mad Magazine and National Lampoon. And of course we mustn't forget how those biology enthusiasts selflessly devoted time to redecorating Mr. Edward's files with only the best dissected remains (which were of course filed properly). Despite busy schedules, athletics were not forgotten, and many found time to participate in gruelling penny-shooting games in the boys' change room. Although these days are behind us, I hope that many will retain these outstanding traits for the rest of their lives.

I think that it is generally agreed upon that the teachers at King are a really great group that deserve a lot more appreciation than they receive. I'd like to make a special thanks to these people for making King a better place to be.

In closing, I'd like to wish each of you here a full and enjoyable life, and I hope that you receive all the happiness and success that is your due.

We've got strange people at King

But we manage!

"A Touch Of Class"

Our Prom was held in the beautiful Costellation Hotel on Friday, May 31. Over 40 couples attended and there was a wondrous transformation from grubby jeans to evening dresses - even some tails and top hats!

KCSS Prom '74

Chris Cullman was very appropriately crowned Prom Queen with Nancy Toussaint, Jenny Murray and Cindy Payne as charming princesses.

Afterwards there were several breakfast parties.

King

CLOCKWISE: Brenda Seed with the gambling wheel; Rick Neagle drawing caricatures; Mr. McClure trying his skill on the saddle; advertising car racing; a successful dunking.

Karnival

CLOCKWISE: A tremendous crowd; Mr. Bonham shooting at the goalie net; balloon-dart booth; Mr. Hardy on the dunking machine.

Walkathon: King City-City Hall

Almost 100 KCSS students trudged the gruelling 30 mile stretch to raise funds for charity and Student Council. First in were Andy Papandreou, Chet Aitken and Bruce Pitkin.
