

The Archon

Semper Progre- diens! Not only our motto, but our practice. Many things were new at KCSS this year. A new vice-principal. A new attendance policy. A new exemption mark for the June finals. A bride and groom in the Phys. Ed. department. Assigned parking spaces. The end of occupational classes. Eight new teachers. The Liquor, I mean Litter Control Board. Overactive teachers working on crutches and in casts. And above all, a bit of new enthusiasm.

Through it all we have laughed, we've griped, we've learned and we will always remember King City Secondary School.

the editor.

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

The 1976-77 school year has ended. The exams are over; the papers are marked; the report cards have been mailed. The gymnasiums are empty. The lockers stand open in the strangely quiet, deserted corridors. The students are gone and the school has become another empty building.

In retrospect, it was a good year, with outstanding performances, both in the classroom and in extra curricular activities. We have re-confirmed our status as an outstanding school in a province which is noted for the quality of its educational system. We have many reasons to be proud of our achievements.

For those who have not been as successful in their efforts as they would have wished, I present the reminder that: "An education cannot be presented as a gift. It must be earned." In the coming year, whether you are at King or elsewhere, work for success and you will surely find it.

W. Eckersley

OUR NEW VICE-PRINCIPAL

Society today is undergoing change at a tremendous rate. In fact, it is becoming a very youth centered society. Today's students have a great deal of affect on our Art, Music, Theatre and our clothing and hair styles. There is no tradition, no institution, no moral value that is immune to the young people of today. In spite of criticism, some of us look at today's youth and see openness, creativity and the intellectual and emotional freedom to experience themselves and their world to the fullest, in a way that leaves us admiring and more than a little envious.

The school that is up-to-date is changing also. The day is gone when a school can be viewed merely as an educational institution. To an increasing extent, society has charged the school with the responsibility for not just educating, but for providing for the overall social and emotional growth of the student as well.

Perhaps our schools should be trying to create environments, that teach by their examples, that will help the students to develop those skills, both in the classroom and out, that will be necessary to cope with our ever changing world. No matter what school organization prevails, however, we must look to the individuals to make it what it is. It is the individuals who care about themselves, their fellow students and the expectations of the system that play a major role in the functioning of King City Secondary School. Regardless of what system or organization that is in operation, it is still the ultimate responsibility of the individual to determine what form his or her education takes. In any organization there are things we must do and there are things we can do if we choose to. Perhaps education is knowing one from the other.

Thank you for the very warm welcome to K.C.S.S. and Good Luck in the challenges that the future brings to you.

INITIATION DAY: From the View Point of an Honourable "NINER"

Perhaps it is terror that marks itself within innocent people that makes them do terrible things five years later. For only niners can know the true horror of the "over-ripe" thirteeners on their day of revenge. They have planned for five solid and boring years, how they are to have their vengeance.

Meetings are called twice a week and then nightly, as they prepare to attack the new members of our own KCSS with de-humanizing orders, terrible tasting Gerber foods, and ridiculous co-ordinates.

Two weeks ahead of Initiation Day finds niners in satisfactory but shaky conditions. As time slowly passes by, strange and interesting rumours begin to circulate within the school and infest themselves in niners minds ... "but that is merely a thought which provides comfort from time to time!"

A week before the day finds niners in a very nervous state. In fact, some are totally paranoid. Mommy and Daddy call in to complain that they don't want to see their little baby hurt, and if he comes home with a tummy ache, the school will be solely responsible!

By Thursday afternoon, the whole thing is blown completely out of proportion. Niners are busy figuring out some way of getting from class to class without getting an egg between the eyes, or a spoon full of yummy creamed vegetables in the mouth. But how, how in the world can you make it from class to class without someone spotting the great big red "nine" on your forehead? You can't.

The Friday morning sun comes over the east as niners develop sudden cases of malaria and terminal illnesses. As they assemble their costumes into place, and make sure shoes are on backwards, dinky trucks are ready, and the bows in their hair won't fall out, niners suddenly realize another problem has arisen. How do you make it to the bus stop, and ON the bus without anyone noticing how you're dressed?

Well, mom says, sulking around the house in the morning won't help the situation any, which it doesn't. She also says you'll probably just be late for the bus, which you are. This only doubles the attention you get because everyone wants to know which stupid niner held up the bus again.

Finally, the solution comes -- to take it like a mature individual (wearing baby's clothes). Niners' heads become filled with thoughts of fighting back thirteeners (at only 4' 11"), but all hopes are crushed and humiliation doubles when in homeroom you find you're the only one in your class who dressed up.

For the first time in the year, the whole class of niners waits for the teacher to dismiss them, and, even at that, they hesitate.

Meanwhile, back in toughland, thirteeners are lurking around dark corners and hiding near stairwells, waiting for the kill. By the end of the day, there seems to be a little less weight on the school roof. Niners begin to notice their stomach aches, scraped noses and strangely located bruises, as the principal gives a sigh of relief that no one was hospitalized this year.

All this aside, the end of the day has brought students closer together and all now have a mutual understanding that you can't be tough until you're in GRADE THIRTEEN!

Along on a night, misty and gray
When the moon parts the clouds windward away
With the Holy Book and candles, flames of Hell
The spirits are with me to cast the spell.

Away with the soul and mind in fusion
The distance travelled and time and illusion
Take me fate, to what destiny holds
Let me see what I am when I'm old.

A Man In Society

Double, double, boil and bubble,
For Mr. Dewell I will make trouble,
With this spell I now recite,
May he fall down sick tonight.
The evil in the winds that blow,
Will help my magic grow and grow.
As I stand now in this spot,
My teacher's head will soon get hot.
Now in half I rip his test
To rid me of this awful pest
Try he might to end the magic
In the end it will be tragic
The only way he can be free
Is if he begs on bended knee.
Double, double, boil and bubble,
Mr. Dewell, you're in for trouble!

LOST ?

Thinking everything has a purpose,
Have you ever wondered why we're here.

Knowing that life's a circus,
Where do you hide your fear ?

"The future is ours,
You're living in the past."

We haven't touched the stars.
Will you make it last ?

Throw your fist up in rage,
But don't lose until you're done.

Don't forget to turn the page;
We still revolve around the sun.

Close your eyes, don't look up:
Maybe it will go away.

Take your time, fill the cup,
Please, listen to what they say.

Time, they say, will tell
Life is yours, yours to choose.

Walking about in a state of hell,
You still can't teach a loser how to lose.

YOU'RE YEARBOOK

STAFF

← looked wrong - your

looked HEADLINE

CROP From an original showing of more than ²⁰ people at the first Archon meeting, our staff has dwindled to 4 people. People are always willing to come to the first meeting to criticize but they aren't willing to put their effort towards any improvement. Thus, the yearbook owes its existence to the efforts of a select few. Special thanks must go to Monsieur Gould, who besides being one of our photographers, ~~he~~ was one of the select few who stayed until the very end. We love him. As usual we owe thanks to the staff advisor, Mr. Edward, for his ability to make us work, some good ideas and his efforts towards pleasing Finance Minister, Mr. Allen. Good luck to all in the future and may your yearbook efforts always be successful.

To Be or Not To Be

To be, or not to be, that's the confusion;
Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer
The sleepless nights of outrageous memory work
Or to learn the lines and by learning
To contort thy Brain to miserable ends.
To die, to sleep and by that sleep
To say we end the memory work and the Thousand other things we don't like about Shakespeare
'tis a consummation devoutly to be wish'd
To die, to sleep, to sleep, perchance to rest
Ay, that's what we would do if we did not have Twenty-one lines of Hamlet to remember
For in that sleep of bliss what dreams would Come, when we knew we would have no more
Memory work till next year.
For who do you know would bear the whips and
Scorns my taxed brain hath taken .
The system is wrong, the students contumely
They know they have been taken in
The insolence of Shakespeare to write
Such things make us wish he had been Stabbed.
With a Bare Bodkin?....Yes?

GOOD KING WILLIAM

Good King William first looked out, on a Monday morning,
When the students lay about, fast asleep and snoring.

Brightly shone his teeth that morn
Though his frown was cruel.

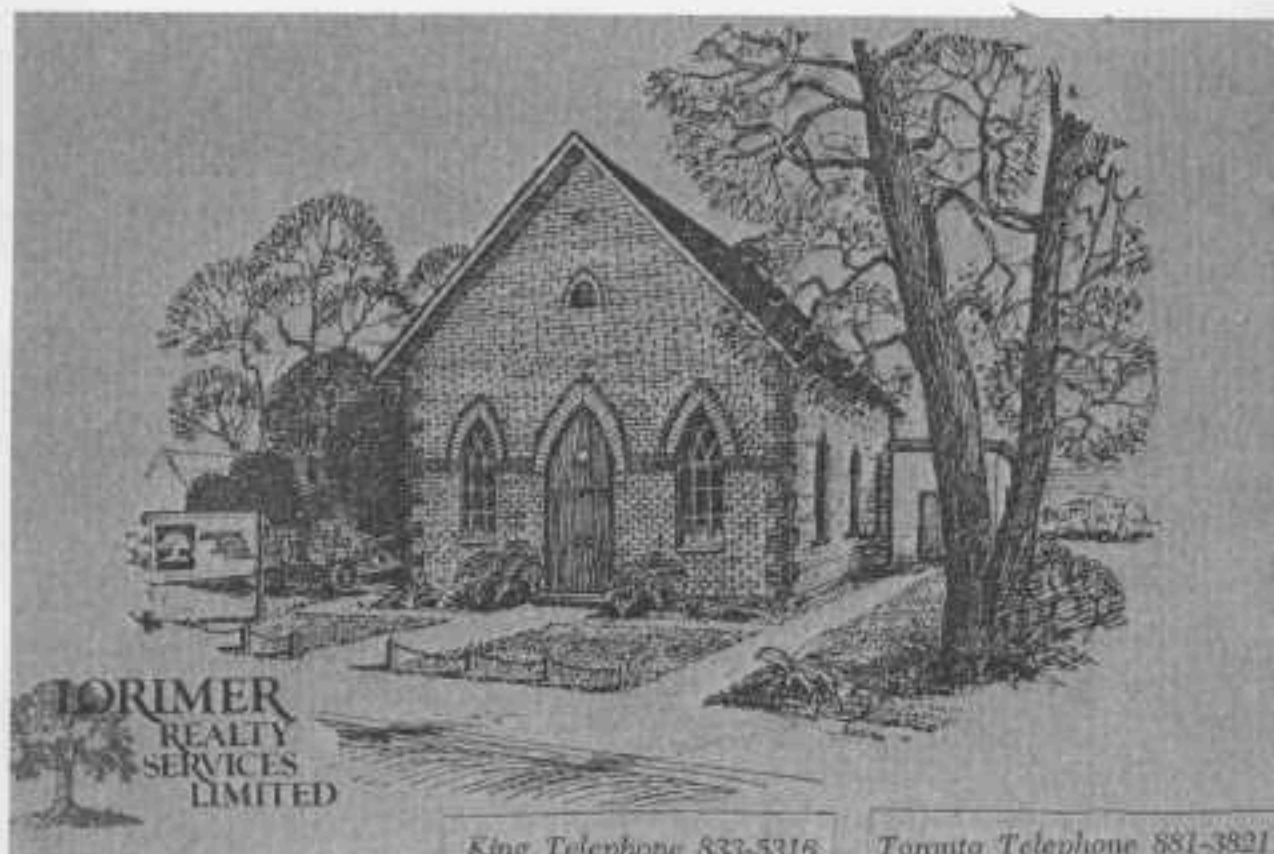

Christmas time had come again:
Kids were skipping school!

Mr. Truax shook his head, he knew they were fools
'Cause when twelve days came about, writing was the rule.

Good King William had a plan which he told his staff.
Have them write exams right now, then they won't skip class.

The student body heard the news, they needed a solution.
In a protest they would lose. This was Bill's tradition.

Therefore, fellow students, hear: do not skip your classes.
For we're writing exams this year,
Instead of Christmas bashes!

During the next few years,
you'll open a lot of important books.

This should be one of them.

This book will help teach you money management. And that is a subject that will be important to you all your life.

At the Commerce, we can help you manage your money. We offer a broad range of accounts to meet your needs. Like our Chequing/Savings Account. It provides you with all the convenience of a chequing account, plus interest, so your savings grow faster.

Now is the time to start learning money management. Drop into a Commerce branch and open an account. And be sure to ask about all our services. Over the next few years you'll probably be using many of them.
