As best you can,

Every child must one day find, it's to be moved. From security, to a place amongst its own. It re-establishes, and adjusts, Looks for and finds new skills. Learns to accept, and becomes. Its own self, a new entity With Individual traits. Now, however, the steps become more difficult, Echelons are viewed, and surpassed. Heights of new intelligence and purpose are reached. And when it's all over, we become, mere average, Education had been reached In theory it was a tiresome process. But when hidden between the lines. Both intermembed with a social environment, Evolves and attempts to be interesting. Dares to emerge as pleasurable. Runs long tis true, but through the generations Opinions appear unchanged, fear the day it ends For so the the best days of your life.

Time Tourists

MR. KROL PRINCIPAL

I would like to live in the 19th century U.S.A. -- there is more opportunities for the individual citizen.

> MR. CARRUTHERS VICE-PRINCIPAL

Renaissance -- to meet Leonardo da Vinci, Michelangelo, Shake -speare and all the other remarkable people of this period,

Mr. Graig: I hope that I will be Lucky enough to live and play and work in the 21st century and thoroughly enjoy the benefits of the three day work week.

Ms. Horak: I would like to live in the Middla Ages in the age of chivalry.

Mr. Campbell: Northern Untario in the 1950's. I like the outdoors and Brylcream.

Hr. Christie: 16th century-because there were fewer auto students!

Mr. Henderson: Bavaria before the 1900's provided one was well to do.

Mr. Fraser: In pioneer Upper Canada about 1900, it would be interesting to take part in the War of 1812.

Ms. MacDonald:

I would like to be the Guidance Counsellor to the Imperial Family -advising Gaesar to give up politics; Antony, Cleopatra, and Nero his music.

Mr. Nettleton: Prohibition -- it would be fun trying to beat the system.

Ms. Patafic: Roaring Twenties--I've always wanted to go to a speakeasy.

Mr. Carson: Many good features occured in the past, but my faith is always directed towards a better future on total balances.

Mr. Gould:
As a geographer I would have like the great age of discovery.
With a little work I would have proven that the world reals is FLAT,

Mr. DiGravio: Roman! Why? Toga, Toga, Toga!!

Hs. Ashley: 1 would like to have been born at the end of the 1800's when there were still horse and buggies.

Ms. Divall: Prior to the 40's just before the post war babies. Before they used up society's resources.

Mr. White:
An art teacher is quite content to live in any time society because he will always stay young at "Art".

Mr. McClure: I would like to live in a time where I could witness the construction of the pyramids.

Mr. Edward: Ancient Egypt -- I could have the only library in the world.

Mr. Dewell:
To be a frigate Captain during the late 18th century when England ruled the waves and the world was open for adventure.

Mr. Jarman: Elizabethan times-because I think I would look good in tights.

Mr. Bonham: 1850's to the 1900's in the Pioneer Times when there was a chance to carve a lifestyle from pature.

Mr. Shepherd: In the Stone Age-then music would really be "rock and roll!"

Mr. Gingrich:
The period prior to the invention of the automobile. This could account for fewer headaches.

Mr. Pattison: In the late 19th century to take part in the advantures of the Yukon Gold Rush.

Mr. Gould: I would choose to live during the time of our native Indians when they were free to rosm this big land of ours.

Ma. Van Dalon:
I would like to live in Europe between 1650 and 1750. I find this period interesting from musical, artistic, and literary points of view.

Mr. Allen:
Age of Attila The Bun.
I am fascinated by his "Three P's" -Politics, Pals, and Press agents.

Mr. Bullock: Would like to live in the 22nd century and experience that which is yet untried.

Mr. Ellison: The 19th century rural Canada, Being of agricultural

Mr. Legault: I would like to see how man will, in the future, adapt to his view of technological advances.

Ms. Walsh: 1'd prefer the challenges of the future to the certainties of the past. But it's preparing for these that makes the present times the best.

Ms. Zopf: The Paleozoic time era since the temperature in Canada was much warmer at that time.

Ms. Hashem: I would like to be a Roman of the upper class during the time of Augustus Caesar.

Mr. Johnston:
I would like to have been around when Adam and Eve were in the Garden of Eden. Then I could have stopped then pinhead Adam from taking a bite out of the apple.

Mr. Thompson:
Mid 1800's, where money didn't play such a major role in society. I would love to live off the land--"Survival of the Fittest."

Mr. Hunt: I would rather live with sir Francis Drake and learned the art of "Bowling on the Green".

Ms. Broadfoot

Hr. Cooke: I'd rather look shead to a time when hopefully, we'll have molved some of our serious problems.

Ms. Tomaselli: One day, a long long time from now where there will be a world where peace exists everywhere.

Mr. Wright: A well-to-do farm set in the middle of England's rolling hills with "serfs" to give me time to travel.

Mr. Smith: Middle Ages England--then I could teach knight school.

Mr. Marsh: I would like to live in the future. By that time we will either have destroyed the world of it will be the millenium of the Christ.

Ms. McKenna: The future--curiosity about things to come and how we've solved (7) our problems.

Our New Teachers

Mr. McRoberts:
Mr. McRoberts previously taught in Newmarket. He enjoys basketball and Track and Field. He is also a very good singer.
Mr. McRoberts is hopeful of more school spirit.
Like many others, he would rather be rich!

Ms. Campoli:
Ms. Campoli is an Italian and English teacher. She enjoys playing piano.
squash, sewing and cooking.
She likes the staff and students here, but she would rather be a fulltime monmy.

Mr. Quinn:
Mr. Quinn is teaching building and is a carpenter by trade. He finds the school discipline system here a good one.
He finds his students cautious and willing to learn. Mr. Quinn would rather by a professional athlete.

Ms. Silver:
Ms. Silver is the new art teacher. She enjoys ceranics and a good lunch.
However, she would rather be sleeping.

Mr. Jurgeneit:
Mr. Jurgeneit, our new building teacher, enjoys watching wrestling, and participating in table tennis. He has taught at several schools before, but above all, be'd rather be with his family!

Ms. Wood

Mr. Corbett:
Mr. Corbett is our new music teacher. He is presently performing with two orchestras besides teaching. He likes it at K.C.S.S. and is proud of the music department.
Although he enjoys it here,
he would rather be in California!

Initiation

As we entered Grade nine, the only thing we dreaded was "THOSE SIG GRADE 13's and INITIATION DAY!"

At first, when we entered the school on October 9, we could easily tell it was that big day we had dreaded for so long. It was a seemingly normal day until these big white Homan bodies came and arranged us in groups of five. Then they started tising us up in green garbage bags...

Any normal person would have thought we were nuts--rolling peanuts down the floor with our noses, having races to see which team could unroll toilet paper the fastest, passing life-savers with a toothpick, and entertaining teachers and friends by singing, "Jingle Bells",

People were amazed watching the "minor niners" saying their marriage vows. In amongst the crowd, you could spot the mighty "Julius Caesar" walking around in a toga, wearing sandals and a green olive leaf around his head, while munching on grapes. Who could this be? The leader of these terrible Romans? None other than the mighty Mr. Carruthers! Yes, he was the leader of these terrible Romans who were terrorizing the little niners. We wound up this memorial event with a dance,

This ended up as a very enjoyable but unusual experience, something we'll never forget thanks to those great thirteens!

Two new staff members joined the Commercial Department this year. They're not people but Commodor Word Processors known as Ziggy and Professor Kingsley. Ziggy and Kingsley live in the newlycarpeted practice office where two Office Procedures students work with them daily. The students working on the word processors are expected to produce business letters. enumerations, manuscripts and other material ordinarily done on a typewriter. An efficient operator will be able to do two-thirds more work daily on a word processor than on a typewriter. Our business students will now have experience on the equipment which is rapidly moving into every office and putting even electric in this year's annual report. typewriters out of business.

Yet, in the midst of these technological advancements in the world, the true, simple Canadian is still represented in our society. Bob and Doug MacKenzie, the truly Canadian brothers, have brought back the back-bacon-and-beer flavour of Canada in their everpopular Great White North television show, their albums. and their appearances througout Canada. The Great White North image, complete with parka, ear muffs, Molson Canadian beer and back-bacon has become visible at K.C.S.S. as well as all over the country. We're even beginning to talk like hosers, eh? Bob and Doug and the Great White North scene have become part of the 1982 image that should be recorded

Not only did King have the Canadian flavour, but a taste of Germany was also present. Regina Heck and Jorg Barres, two German exchange students spent three months with Darlene Budweth and Chris Dohle, two grade twelve students. They arrived in King' in early September and began school with everyone else. Both Jorg and Regina found that in Canadian schools there is a much better student-teacher relationship. In Germany, the teachers don't interact with students at all; they just teach the lessons Jorg and Regina found the Canadian people to be very friendly. Our German visitors especially enjoyed their trip to Montreal and Quebec City. Jorg enjoyed Canadian peanut butter, too.

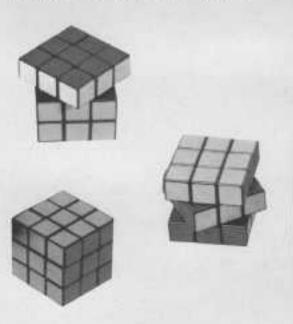

"Compliments of NOBLETON FIREFIGHTERS We still make housecalls."

K.C.S.S. Report

Chris and Darlene will leave for Germany in April where they, too, will attend German schools. Since Darlene and Chris cannot continue their credits in Germany, the entire year's work must be completed by the end of March. Besides the excitement of such a trip, they will be busy students. During their three month stay in southwest Germany, Chris and Darlene hope to visit Bonn, East and West Berlin. We wish Darlene and Chris all the best and look forward to hearing from them in September.

King City was proud to present the performance of "Family Entertainment Only" an hour-long play written by Mr. Roy Nettleton. The cast of Gordon Janes, Jane Stewart, Debbie Scott, and Steve Reid did most of the work during the summer vacation. Returning in September with their lines memorized, the cast needed only to learn stage directions -- allowing the play to be presented as early as October. The play was a success, thanks to the assistance of Mr. Nettleton and Mrs. Wash, the directors. Miss Tomaselli, makeup and costumes, Karen Dunn, Kathy McLaughlin, and many more who contributed their time and talents. Another performance, "The Killdeer" will be ready in the spring and will be entered in the Bradford Festival.

Another fad that has caught the attention of the ambitious students is that funny coloured cube with 43 quintillion twists: Rubik's Cube. It's the newest craze invented by Professor Rubik, a teacher of design and geometric sculpture in Hungary. There are more than eight million cubes sold already. Some have mastered the cube and others are still struggling to get at least one side of the cube all one colour. However, the puzzle has become so popular, it wouldn't be at all surprising to see the Rubik's Cube Solution Book on the top of the bestseller list of the year.

CREATIVE

There is a lot of literary talent to be found around our school. which has not always surfaced in the past. With the creation of the Creative Skills course offered at the grade twelve level, some of these talents have not only surfaced but improved. It is fitting that their talents be shared and recorded in this book.

The following is an exerpt from a journal required to be kept daily by the Creative Skills students...

.....You know, I was always a pretty stupid child. One day I was playing in the culvert when I came upon two glittery bottles. I innocently pulled them out, very pleased with myself. It's not often that you go burrowing in a culvert and come out with two full bottles of some unknown liquid. I was coming down the driveway to the house, proudly waving the bottles over my head. That's when my brother Jim came running toward me. I've never seen anybody run so fast. He came straight toward me; didn't say a word, just grabbed the bottles and kept running right by. To this day, I always check out the culvert eagerly. But my brother's married and moved away, so I guess there won't be any bottles in there for a long time. My other brother Geoff is beginning to take after him. Except that he makes his own. He's got a beer vat going in the basement and some dandelion wine brewing in his bedroom. He likes to poison his friends when they come over. I'm glad I'm his sister ...

Vicki Curran

Best wishes from COUCH'S AND THINGS LTD.

Forgotten With Time

She sits on the top shelf; Yellow and withered with age. Her coarse, faded hair Was once bright, red wool. Pipecleaner spectacles have been bent and broken With the passage of seventy years. A blue calico dress and starched, white apron Once crisp, and soft, and fresh, Now limp, and colourless, and dusty. Her eyes, Two tiny black dots; Her mouth. A thin wavering line. She was a vibrant part of my youth: We had shared afternoon tea, Advice Trips to the corner store. Once alive, now forgotten with time. No one to laugh or share stories with. She sits on the top shelf Like I in my rocker. Yellow and withered with age. My coarse faded hair Was once bright, red braids. My spectacles have been bent and broken With the passage of seventy years. I still wear my calico dress; My apron is gone. My eyes. Two tiny black dots, almost closed now; My mouth A tiny wavering line. I was a vibrant part of their youth: We shared afternoon tea, Advice Trips to the corner store. Once alive, now forgotten with time. I've no one to laugh or share stories with. She sits on the top shelf, I in my rocker, Once alive, now forgotten with time.

Julie Quesnelle, 12G

Alone

The house is empty. I'm all alone But I don't mind, if no one's home. It gives me time, to think it through Why I love you as I do.

I sit here, with my cup of tea And wonder, "Do you think of me?" I can not even read my book For thinking of your certain look.

There's a crackling fire in the grate I wonder what will be my fate. How I love the fire's sound If only I had you around.

Martha Long, 12E

Death

Death came knocking at my door, I begged him for Just a few minutes more. He pulled at my hand. Ever so gently --As the tears rolled down my face. I prayed so hard in hope that someone would hear But it didn't seem to help for death was much too near. I turned to scowl at him For taking me away so soon. But I couldn't. Because his face was gentle, And reassuring. And now that my journey had ended, At least through this world. I held his hand firmly but oh so gently, And I let him guide me on. I left with a smile. But more vividly I remember. The tears that rolled down

HIS face.

Cheryl Petcherych, 12G

Student's Prayer

Now I lay me down to sleep
My homework piled up in a heap.
If I die before I wake
I've three requests which to make.
Lay my geography at my side
And tell Ms. Zopf I really tried.
Lay my history at my feet
And tell Mr. Sinyard it's got me beat.
Lay my English at my head
And tell Mrs. Dubar I'm glad I'm dead.

AJMW

He makes me feel things deep inside
Things that I find hard to hide
There's an adorable twinkle in his eyes
And a softness spoken in our good-byes.
Our first kiss was a special event
Although, I wasn't sure just what it meant.
He fills my head with foolish thoughts
And ties my stomach up in knots.
He's shown me love in many ways
'Til our next meeting, I'll count the days
I'm always happy when he's around Even when we don't make a sound.
He makes me breathless as he holds me close
But it's these moments that I cherish most.

Martha Long, 12E

Dr. Mathews, Schomberg's Dentist, wishes K.C.S.S. students all the best.

CHRIS DOHLE

Our Reach for the Top team of Chris Dohle, Al Sutherland, Jeff Smith, and Greg Betty are to be congratulated on their hard work and fine effort they put in as representatives for King City Secondary School. They won their first game against Newmarket High School with flying colours. However, the overwhelming physical and mental strain involved in such a game caused them to lose the next game to Midland Secondary School, knocking them out of competition. We hope for better luck next year.

Quality sticks from PeeWee to Pro.

The pros are coming back to Victoriaville! That's because Victoriaville makes their sticks light, durable, and balanced to perfection. With 4-piece construction and tough, thin pro-style blades that stand up to the kind of hockey the pros like to play.

If you're serious about hockey, you deserve a stick that is just as good as you are. Come back to quality. Come back to prestige. Come back to Victoriaville.

See the Pro Vic 1000 and the Custom Vic 1000 at your Victoriaville dealer now.

When you're finally tired of foolin' around, get yourself a Victoriaville.

Valedictory Address

(edited)

dood evening friends. It is difficult to put sentiments into words. However, one cannot let thirteen years of formal education page away in elience. There is much to be said for our elementary and higherhool education. I am mure everyone here can remember their very first day of echool. Hemember how herrifted you were to leave your mother's mide" It was very difficult to accept the fact that another world existed outside of the one you'd known for the first five years of your life. But it didn't end there. We went on to discover that a larger, more complex world existed; one where we are still learing about today, and one which will, no doubt, continue to surprise us as time goes on. But, if we think back new, particularly to the past five years, it is almost assaing to realize everything we've issumed in higherhool. I am certain everyone here has countless stories as to what it is all about. I know higherhool has taught me namy things. Just think of all the things we've discovered here. I think the first true revelation made in grade 9 was the existence of the opposite sex. Highschool really teaches you a lot of things. It teaches social agility. Just think: if you are ever in a bind for a subject in a social situation, you can always explain how to successfully perform a five-minute chromosome squash from an onion root tip. If that isn't impressive enough, you can easily go onto describe what all stages of mitosis looks like under a high powered oil emermion microscope. Really, highschool teaches you much more than just subject matter. Highschool trains you administratively as well. Everyons of us learned very quickly how to make the most of our time by skillfully discovering how to rearrange all our classes so that double spares managed comehow to always be in the morning -- so we never had to get up before 10:30 a.m. We had great accomplishments such as restoring the grade 13 hall justly back to the grade 13's, and securing our own lounge -- even if it was between 3:02 and 3:45 only. And I ask you, who else but this group could possibly do anything as insane as stealing the door from the men's washroom-and then loose it' Remember the days of the great white north, field parties that were impossible to find, the thought for the day, assemblies that managed to always run into both your spares, and of course, the prom. Gome are the days of yellow school bus, and having your locker beside the same person year after year. The days of Beaver Foods, alphabetical scatter plans, periods one to nine—not always in that order—double spares, and lunches with those famillar faces day after day. All those qualities and events typical of highschool life are gone for most of on now-or will be moon. From September to June we live with each other day after day. We loved and we hated one another, we fought, we won and we lost, we laughed and now the year is gone. But only clocks can mark the passing of time. Together we have frozen a passage of time that can never be erased. We will always be the graduating class of 1980-81. Those times we spent here at King--those long months and yours that often seemed like they would never end will not pass easily and quickly into our world of dreams. We shared more than just a dream, we shared the reality of being -- and being special. It would be disnoment to may that those days we spend together will continue.

They cannot. Our lives us highschool students and moreover, as one large group will no longer exist. Now, we must learn to break away from this central world which we shared, and begin to create our individual worlds. For the reality of being in not always offered to us the illusion which it creates. Very often it reminds us that life may be painful and lonely, and quite often difficult. Eventhough many of us here may never again meet face to face, we will often in our memories. We must not look upon this time as being a sad time, this evening should be one of the happies evenings of our lives. For is as much as one part of our lives may be passed, another is just beginning. This is what we celebrate tonight—a new beginning. In essence, that what commencement is all about, it is a celebration of a new beginning. In essence, that what for me our memories are happy ones and ones we will reflect often upon, we cannot dwell in the past. For the past is just a fading memory. That is really important is today—now, because now is when we plan for the Cuture. And, in effect, that's all that really exists for us, the future. For every moment that we live only slips into the past. To moment can be repeated; the past cannot return. And so now, we must look upward and outward, and prepare for the days and the times whent of us. We are truly a fortunate group for so much is offered to us. There are so many doors that are open, let us not close any of them. On is when we should gramp those opportunities which wait so readily for us. Ferhaps it may not always be just so—but hopefully, opportunity and good fortune will always exist in abundance for us. You so, for the last time as one, we begin a new part of our lives. Fermically, that which we now begin marks the end of our life together. But tonight, we give one another the strength and the courage to take our lives finally into our own hands, whether the words are spoken, or silent. It is now time to begin living for the future—to grow and to learn, and to guide yourself, perhaps by the hand, along the unfamiliar pathways which you yourselves construct on the way to achieving your goals, and in pursuit of your highest convictions. And so friends, from here we part—but never really say goodbye. To you, I will always and only may hello.
