ANOTHER 25 YEARS...

ADMINISTRATION

It is a privilege for us to be able to write this message for our yearbook. We are proud to be a part of such a fine school and such outstanding staff and students.

On behalf of all of us, we extend our sincere thank you and congratulations to Mr. Ellison and the Yearbook Committee for producing such a fine book of our students, staff and special events, for the school year of 1986-87. As we come to the close of another year, we as educators, and you as students, have each done our part to make this a truly positive and productive school year. Wherever you go on from here, it is our wish that you grab hold of tomorrow, and using what you have learned, build it into a shining future. Our hope for you is that your pathway be straight and true and that your destination be vibrant with happiness and promise.

Remember-- "Success is NOT just how far you got, but the distance travelled from where you started."

-Mr. T.C. Fawcett and
-Mr. K.G. Tonner

Mr. Tonner began his career at Langstaff Secondary School for what was then the York Central District High School Board. After two years at Langstaff he was promoted to Head of the Boy's Physical Education Department at Bayview Secondary. In 1969, the York County Board was formed to operate both the elementary and secondary schools in the region and in 1971, Mr. Tonner was transferred to the elementary panel as Vice-principal of Nobleton Senior Public School. From there he was transferred to Crosby Heights Senior Public School and in 1974 he was appointed Principal of Keswick Public School. Since that time he has been transferred to Crosby Heights and Roselawn Public Schools as Principal before returning to the secondary school panel as Vice-Principal of King City Secondary School.

REUNION '86

26 years ago, K.C.S.S. opened its doors to welcome students from all over King Township.

Three years ago, Mr. Ellison, along with ex-students such as Alan Huycke, Ken Orr, Darlene Comfort, Carl Mondorf, Lorne Gellens, John Peddie, Doug Clarke, Jim Hughes, Clifford Scott, and Astrid Ilishan decided it was time for the graduates of the past years to get back together. The K.C.S.S. 35th Reunion was underway. During these many months, many people donated their time and effort to help locate people, advertise, type letters and invitations, stuff, stamp and mail envelopes, spend hours typing address cards into a computer that was constantly breaking down. I was asked to help out in many of these areas. Among other things were making and receiving continuous phone calls and generally preparing for the weekend of May 16, 17, 18, 1986. And what a weekend it was!

Over 2500 K.C.S.S. graduates roamed through the halls looking at pictures of their classmates and themselves. Meeting old friends and teachers at Pub Night, the dinner dances or at the Barbeque on Sunday afternoon. The accompanying pictures tell only part of the nostalgic feeling that swept over everyone as they greeted people that they had not seen for, sometimes, 20 years. Most of them had changed, especially the staff I, of course, had not met such teachers as Dr. Etele, Mr. Fidler, or Mrs. Thompson, but they seemed to be just as well liked as when they left King.

The word is that the next reunion is already being planned for 1996. Let's start spreading the word now!

-Jacqui Hayles

REGISTRATION

It was the last week of August and I felt the last days of summer slowly slipping by. I knew school was near, but it all seemed so far away. Waking up early and knowing that you had to go to school seemed just like a dream. Until... school registration.

Yes, it had finally arrived. The time we said hello to old friends and greeted new ones at the door. Yearbooks were bought and time tables were collected. We discovered what teachers we would have and what friends were in each class. We found our lockers and tried our combinations. We then went home full of anticipation for school was here. Yet... summer was gone!

-Nyka Campbell

CANOE TRIP

On an over-cast Tuesday in September, 26 rather demented people loaded vans and trailers with tons of camping gear and headed north. The first day of paddling was good with the exception of the portage. Walking through mud up to your knees is not my idea of a good portage. We all did quite well considering we only lost two people. Later that day we got to shoot rapids. After we had set up camp for the night and had a meal, it was time for bed. A large group of us slept out under the stars. It was here we started "The Fireside Club". The conversation was great and the backrubs, outstanding! I thought we had died and gone to heaven!!! The next day, another quick breakfast and then off again, more rapids today and then across Georgian Bay. Some of the most memorable parts of this day were the insight given to us by the Crones of what marriage is really like, meeting Sammy the Smoking Clam, and discovering that Mr. Bullock is half fish. The next morning it was time to pack up and head home. I don't think any of us have been so glad to see an outhouse in all our lives. We finally got all the vans loaded up and back to K.C.S.S we went. It was over. What an incredible trip!! I don't think anyone will ever forget those four days.

STUDENT LIFE

SPECIAL DAYS

STUDENT ADMIN.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Student Council had a great year. We started it all off with some real nifty school jackets. No one stepped in the path of a dude/dudette sporting our green and white letterman jackets. After establishing the fact that we were the coolest school in York Region, we hosted some fabulous dances. Who could forget our airband event, our movie night, and our theme days. Our home-room reps were a great bunch and the ones who remain at K.C.S.S. will definitely be an asset to future student councils. BUT, nobody will ever top our incredible marketing skills displayed over the K.C.S.S. P.A. system.

WE, the council, sincerely hope that next year will be as successful as our year, 86/87.

STUDENT ATHLETIC COUNCIL

The SAC (Student Athletic Council) is a school club whose goal is to provide financial aid for school teams. It is also responsible for improving the sports equipment and keeping these important items up to date. For this reason, the SAC executive, consisting of Michelle Cellucci (president), Christy Gavigan (vice president), Sherri Gillies (treasurer), and Jennifer Moore (secretary), plan to organize many fund raisers in order to provide the necessary funds for the council's costly tasks.

Hopefully, 1986-87 can be a very successful and pleasurable year for the SAC and everyone at King City Secondary School.

UNSUNG HEROES

Did you ever wonder what happens to the thousands of coins that get swallowed by the drink machines in the cafeteria? Who really are the people behind the voices over the P.A. every morning?

The individuals responsible for these jobs, and dozens others like them, are the reason why our school is such a great place to be. So many activities take place from day to day that go unnoticed by most of us. There are lots of people, both staff and students, that do the little things that need to be done.

Let's hear it for Mr. Lindeblom and his financial bookkeeping for the entire school; the students like Laura Collacott and Lori Sloan who co-ordinate the candy cane sales. Hats off to the President of the Music Club, Sonantha Schneider; Mr. Christie for adjusting the timing on your car and Christy Cavipan for all that she does.

There are so many people who make our school tick, but it is impossible to mention everyone.

JUNIOR

AWARDS

NIGHT

Junior Commencement, October 2, 1986, was a night to remember and to be proud of not only by parents, but also by King City Secondary School. It was a night for the Principal, the Vice-Principal, the teachers, parents, relatives and friends to come together to acknowledge the accomplishments of the young ladies and gentlemen receiving awards for various achievements. Among the students who received awards, were seven outstanding scholars. I would like to talk about and recognize each of these people.

In grade nine, two students who received various awards were Anne Olorakog (6 Awards) and Cameron MacLeod (8 awards). In grade ten the top two students were Frances Rossetti (7 awards) and Jennifer Moore (8 awards). In grade eleven, the top two students were Carolyn Wicks and Cory Repta. Both Carolyn and Cory won 7 awards. Everyone worked exceptionally hard for their awards. Well done! For our entertainment, we had the musicians in the intermediate Concert Band play for us. They did a terrific job.

Congratulations to all!

-Greg Haddow

Long before the official ceremony begins the many participants, such as Messrs. McClure and Pattison, must get their robes.

COMMENCEMENT '86

The evening is traditionally highlighted by the Valedictorian's speech. This year, for the first time ever, we were graced with co-speakers; Kristina Madden and Andrew McDougall. It was good.

SCHOOL DANCES

11

This years Student Council and S.A.C. put together some very successful dances. These include, the Hallowe'en Dance, Air Band Contest, Schantment Under the Sea, and CTR Dance. One of the more successful dances was the Hallowe'en dance where many ghouls dressed up. Another success was the Air Band Contest. A lot of talented people strutted their stuff in the hopes of winning a prize. In first place was "Sionnie and the Robotics". In second place was "Images in Vogue" and in third place was "The Worny Hufnagle Singers" lead by Neil Crone.

CHRISTMAS ASSEMBLY

This year the talented grade 11's put together a very funny Christmas play based on the story, "A Christmas Carol". Mr. King, the illustrious Scrooge, chases all the studious students away from his library. Mr. Edwards, the ghost appears to Mr. King. Through a few apparitions, Mr. King slowly changes to the nice person we always knew he could be!

The school was entertained by the Senior Stage Band and the Choir, which was lead by Mrs. Gilbert and Mrs. Hoffer. We were also lucky to hear a duet from Susan Millar and Gavin Elder.

ART and POETRY

Visions

Off in the distance,
Vague and blurry
The visions become crystal-clear
And the understanding becomes easier.
As the terror fades;
The trust grows
The distorted colours focus upon beauty
Of a rainbow;
A bouquet.
All signs of love between two people
Of a different contrast.
They clash;
And become one.
The same way colours mix;
And become white
The purity of life.
The mixtures of friendships.
And life goes on
Until someone adds black.
And when that happens,
All life and humanity
Will end.

-Sandi Kowman

Nothing Is Forever

Time,
Oh, how the days pass
Needlessly, soundlessly.
The yawning cavern of father time
Swallows us.
We are tiny, here for only seconds.
Temporary.
Or so it seems.
We die and move on.
Only to leave behind
Those to feel the pain of loss.
And they decide to carry on,
Or to follow us.
Both roads are rocky
And steep
Sorrow and fear.
We leave it to you.
Don't follow us.
Take the toughest road,
Surviving.
We love you.
We will meet again when the clock strikes eternity.

-S.L. Seethaler

Dear Mother
Dear Father
I have a complaint
I am what I am
and I ain't what I ain't
So please just accept me for what I am
Treat me just like a responsible man
Don't always tell me what to do
So we can be happy, just me and you
You cannot show me in one direction
Just accept me, show me affection
You are the wind but I guide the sails
You are pushing me like a big gale
I know I'm not what you want but I'm not perfect, I'm not store bought
I know what's wrong, I know what's right
So stop holding me so tight
Let me go my own way or I'll have to go away
I'm not perfect, you can't mold me
Only if we could live in harmony
You can help me make a decision
But don't give me total supervision
Why don't you let me do my things right then you'll see I'm a bright light.

-Trevor Biss

Gates Of Evil Doom

He walks in a land of night
No longer are his mornings gold.
He sees no dawn, he sees no light.
He feels no heat or cold.

He's trapped inside these looming walls,
These gates of evil slammed and barred.
To him fading voices call,
And back he tries to go so hard.

But his evil isn't forgotten;
They ignore his desperate glance.
Forever he will weep in sin,
For he has no second chance.

- S.L. Seethaler

Standing on the Shore

To the girl in a boat, on the horizon,
All my hopes reach out to you across the waves.
No ocean could wash you from my memory;
You drift with the tide, away from me
And still I cry above the gulls and the sea,
Still hoping you'll hear me call
"I love you".

-Neil Crockett

The Runaway

You're running on this foreign land,
Your eyes are opened wide.
The snow has covered all your tracks,
And fear is at your side.

You have to find some shelter;
It doesn't matter how.
Beneath the canopy of trees
It's warm enough for now.

You have to calm your hunger.
You have to quench your thirst.
You have to rest your aching sides,
Or else you feel you'll burst.

The matches, they seem dry enough
To light the sticks aflame.
The old and rusty tin you find
Is useful all the same.

You fill the tin with the snow,
To melt upon your fire.
Tomorrow you will string a snare
With your own small piece of wire.

Within your chosen world alone
The fire ends your fear.
There's peace within your tortured mind;
They'll never find you here.

-S.L. Seethaler

My Piece Of World

In the time I sit here
Thinking of life
I wonder why there is so much violence.
The world;
Once a world of love
So now a place of hatred
With different cultures,
Languages....
Why can't people see we're all the same.
From the same heaven
The same hell.
We will all die in some era
And be sent towards our future,
Either through happiness,
Or grief.
But some people don't care,
And continue to destroy this once perfect world,
A beautiful world
That was once even more beautiful than today
And for what it matters,
I think my piece of world
Will always belong more to heaven
Than the deadliest hell
Because life is what love;
Peace and happiness
are all about.

Life's Choices

It seems to me
That things happen;
Whether we want them to
Or have not yet decided.
But are caught in the middle standing on the borderline
Swaying back and forth
Between positive;
Negative;
Or even staying balanced.
Without the responsibility of decision
But instead
Relying towards someone else for the command;
Order of choice
Through cold hearts,
Minds of steel.
The same that rule the world
But not mine;
Not even my fantasy.
Because I am one of the fortunate,
That can make these choices;
Decisions
That enable me to live on forever
In peace.

Just Friends

Do you ever think of me
when you're holding him,
Or when you're alone, dreaming?
When we're in a crowd,
do you ever look at me
with a special smile in your eye?
Do you ever wonder where I am or what I'm doing?
Do you ever wish we could be more than "just friends"?
Do you ever think of me
the way I think of you?
Do you?

Your Secret

They know your secret, the mountains do;
They laugh when you turn away;
Their demon eyes, they stare at you,
For all you've done you'll pay.

You'll suffer like us, you'll feel the pain;
They'll make your blood run cold,
And when they freeze your pulsing veins
You'll wonder why you were so bold.

You sit and panic, "could they know?",
Then your brain will scream out loud,
As your heartbeats start to slow
You feel the mountain's evil shroud.

You want to leave this place;
Their wisdom is too much for you.
In your last breath you see their gentle faces;
They know your secret, the mountains do.

-S.L. Seethaler

Winter Memory

The children sing
And play in the snow.
Their voices ring;
Their faces glow.

Making snowmen
Oh! what fun!
"Fetch the hat,
There. Now we're done."

Let's go for a ride
In a sled down a hill.
We glide. Oh, no!
A bump...we spill.

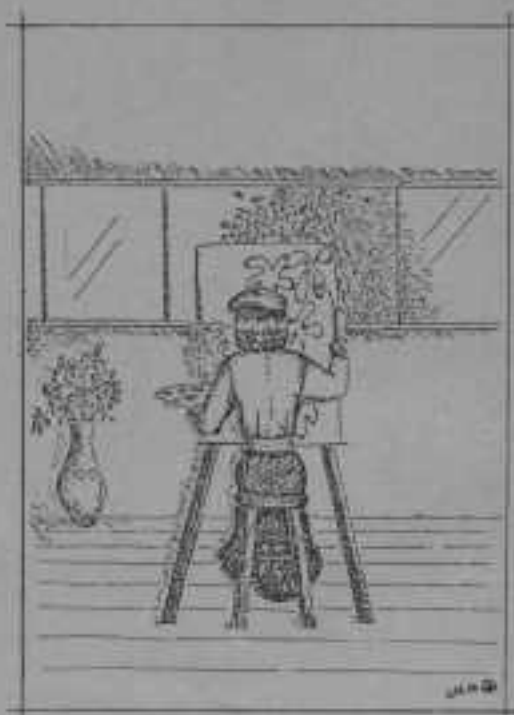

Soggy mittens
A chilly nose,
Wet knees
And frozen toes.
These things happen in outdoor play,
All results of a glorious day.

Whizzing through air
In well-aimed flight
It lands on my head -
A snowball fight.

* * *

Now we're the children singing and ringing,
The memories bring smiles to our faces.
But the picture's fading...
One more glimpse
...gone

Paranoia

Never alone;
 But always scared
 Of things that aren't there.
 Chocking twice,
 When locking doors.
 With a night light by your bed,
 Producing a shimmering glow;
 That lights up the room,
 and your path to freedom
 From this mind-twisting terror.
 That results in sleepless nights.
 Eerie noises:
 Strange, unknown shadows
 and hollow voices
 That sink into your memory and nestle.
 Leaving you cold and sweaty,
 Struggling to forget
 But never remembering.
 And dying of fright in a sleepless coma.
 The possessing demon
 Will live forever.
 Destroying other minds
 Until a power;
 With the strength of honesty,
 and understanding
 Destroys the thoughts,
 and conquers the demon.
 For a good night's sleep
 Without the memories.

Arielle

End of day,
 No more play,
 Toys away,
 Arielle.

In arms of Mom,
 A quiet hum,
 She sucks her thumb,
 Arielle.

'Gainst mother's breast,
 A little nest,
 Her head caressed,
 Arielle.

Fully fed,
 And off to bed,
 Sleepy head,
 Arielle.

A tender hug,
 Securely snug,
 My little bug,
 Arielle.

KCSS REPORT

This year at KCSS started off with a boom as students filed into hallways and classrooms to give the school its usual lived in look. (Doesn't it look too clean in the summer?) As niners feverously searched for all of their classes during that first week, the thirteens began their plottings on making this the most memorable initiation in a long time. If you think you missed something, don't worry, so did all of the grade 11's. They'll probably be noted for being the only graduating class in KCSS history to pass up the chance to initiate niners. But have no fear, there's always the spring and one never knows what to expect from this crowd!

Halloween soon passed by leaving memories of the Monster Mash Bash and the candlelight storytelling in the Drama room. Fast approaching was the Christmas season and Exams which always seems to have this strange, unifying affect on the whole student body. Group studies, group notes, and group misery. There were, however, some happier moments from this time of the year; such as, the Christmas Assembly (which was coined by teachers as being the best one in a long time) snowfights, Christmas Concerts with the Bands and Choir, spending the Break with school buddies, and making sure above all that you did absolutely no homework.

We can't forget our extra-curricular activities here at KCSS. We're always so proud of the success of our after-school teams and clubs that enough just can't be said about them. Our Midget Girls Basketball Team proved to be the darlings of the school as they went on to capture the York Region Championship and place a competitive 2nd in the Durham York Championship. This qualified them for a spot in the King Hall Of Fame. All our other sports teams are also to be commended for their enthusiastic representation of KCSS. However King is not only successful in athletics, we also have exceptional academic clubs and teams, such as Reach For The Top, Music, Law, Newspaper and Dramatic Clubs, all of which owe great credit to the Student's Athletic Council as well as the Student's Council for providing the financial backbone for our extra-curricular programmes.

Once again King City has been involved in numerous student exchanges with other provinces as well as other countries. We've had Julie Doyon visiting on a 3 month exchange from Quebec, while her King counterpart Jennifer Beffron returns the visit to Quebec at the end of January. Kop Rajapiti from Thailand and Lisbeth Egeholm from Denmark have been spending a year here in a Canadian environment while students from KCSS spent a year on Rotary exchanges in foreign countries. Chris Douglas has been in Denmark, Ligaya Byrch went to Japan, Suzanne Teadwell is in Australia while Vanessa Graffi went to New Zealand. KCSS will also be participating in the exchanges to St. Donat, Quebec and St. Morine, Switzerland.

Looking ahead to the rest of the year, the grade 13's will be continuing the tradition of the Spring Canoeing Trip (the 12's already went in the fall and apparently got quite soaked!). There will be the American History field trip to Washington D.C., the band and choir exchange to Winnipeg, the March Break, and finally, wrapping up the year, the Senior Prom. For those of you who are graduating this year, or for some other reason leaving KCSS, you'll probably find it's with immense regret, for though it's sometimes hard to admit, King has become your second home away from home, and it's kind of hard to leave behind the good times and the wonderful friends. Thank goodness for memories.

STAFF

GOOD BYES ...

"I arrived at King City Secondary in 1963; this was my first teaching position. I liked the school and the students so I stayed till 1987. Now it is time to leave and try other endeavours. I thank the staff and students for making my years at King very good years!"

E. Smereka

"I have many fond memories of K.C.S.S. With regard to past times, I specifically remember my last Latin class. We were hosted by Richmond Hill High School to compete in chariot races, toga and drama presentations. King City outdid them all and won the prizes. In more recent times I remember the thoughtfulness of the students when I lost members of my family or I, myself was ill. But most of all, I shall miss the contact with you young people-your "joie de vivre". Our discussions, our arguments, and our jokes were fun. You have taught me a great deal." Mrs. Dubar has been with us from September 1963 to June 1987.

R. Dubar

Mr. Levin wished to be as brief as his stay at King. When asked the following questions these were his answers: Do you have any fond memories of this school? "Friday afternoon hockey games when someone actually passes the puck to me and those rare times when I actually handled the pass!" Although Mr. Levin has only been with us from 1985-1987 we will miss him alot. Best wishes in the future.

"In 1963 I arrived at King City Secondary School to teach Physical Education. Two years later I resigned, but returned in 1969 to teach until now. From those years I have many memories. In the physical education classes, the girls wore the dreadful blue bloomers. The boys joined us for square dancing, ballroom dancing and gymnastic classes. I remember looking ridiculous as a Roman soldier, a flapper, a cook, and a tacky tourist. One exciting day many of the teachers drove very small tricycles and kiddie cars in a "chariot" race through the halls. Another interesting day was the one on which we arrived at school only to find that we had been locked out. The 25 year reunion was an extra special treat. What fun to see so many former pupils and teachers! Thank you students, for a sometimes exciting, sometimes frustrating, but always interesting twenty years. Thank you staff for the friendship and kindness you have always shown me. I will miss you all."

N. Hashem

"I came to King City in September of 1971 as Head of the Business Department and have been in that position ever since. While sixteen years may seem like a long time to remain on the same job, the many changes that have taken place in curriculum and teaching methods plus the continuous flow of new students every few years ensured that the job stayed fresh. At King City I have had the privilege of working with many capable and friendly staff as well as many hundreds of students who contributed to their own enrichment and that of the school by eagerly participating in classroom activities and other school events. Among many satisfying happenings at the school I would rank the steady upgrading of equipment in the business classrooms as an achievement that gave me the greatest amount of personal satisfaction. I have enjoyed keeping the financial records of the Students' Council for over a dozen years. This kept me in close touch with all activities in the school that involved money, and that means nearly every activity."

S. Lindblom

Every year our school must say goodbye to one or two members of its staff. Farewells are always difficult, but this year proved particularly so since we were forced to not only say goodbye to a large number of people, but four of these staff members represented close to one hundred years of service in this school. Such experience will be hard to replace and we will miss the five of you greatly.

STAFF

In the following section we have asked the staff to give you their favourite student excuse and/or their favourite topic that they teach. These are represented by the abbreviations FE and FT respectively.
