

OUT OF THIS WORLD

Welcome to the 1998
 Fireman. OUT OF THIS
 WORKS we will be making
 CONTACT with many people and striving towards a greater level of RIGHT LIFE. If we shoot
 FOR THE STARS we will ultimately achieve the goals
 our greatest expectations.

Making CONTACT

Sure, there are good times, and there are bad times. But your ~~FR~~~~ENDS~~ are there for you through it all.

They stood by you all year long, and they will ~~KEE~~~~P~~ stand- ing by you ~~FOR~~ the rest of your ~~LIFE~~. When it all comes down to it, no one can forget how much they ~~LOVE~~ life here at King, and ~~THAT~~ is a special feeling that only we king folk share. Luckily for us, that feeling ~~LASTS~~ ~~FOR~~~~EVER~~! That's what ~~MAKING~~~~OUR~~~~COMMUNITY~~ is all about at ~~K.C.S.S.~~

Little Dippers

As the years go by, our

The year of first impressions. Remember that girl you saw at the grade 8 track and field meet? Or the boy you thought gave you the eye on your trip to Scanlon Creek? Well, you most likely go to school with them now. We all remember getting ready for our first day of high school. What should I wear? Should I get to my first class fashionably late to make my grand entrance? Do I dare go to the plaza for lunch yet? For a grade 9, these are some important decisions. We also remember our grade 9 traumas. Here are some valuable lessons we've learned:

- 1) Never run down the stairs if you're late for class, you always end up sprawled out on the floor.
- 2) Replace your pencil box with a pencil case that zips up. When those things are dropped, your stuff flies everywhere.
- 3) Always read the number on the classroom door before you take a seat. It's really embarrassing when 15 minutes later you realize you don't know a thing about calculus!

Right: Take a good look at these gr. 9's because soon they'll be all grown up.

Tanya is a typical grade nine girl that has just arrived for her first year of high school. Like every other grade nine, Tanya wants to stand out and be noticed. First impressions are very important. Notice the perfectly brushed hair, because frizzles are not allowed! Her make-up is applied very well so it looks natural, yet grabs your attention. Tanya wants to be 'hip' and you can tell by her fashionable attire. Hip-hugging, boot-cut pants and chunky boots (even though you can't see her boots) were very 'in' this year. Tanya is also sporting her Indian Motorcycle trendy black shirt. With this stylish outfit, she is sure to get noticed!

Dan is also in grade nine and feels as though this is the year to start his reputation. He has followed a few typical trends very nicely. The Nike hat worn backwards gives him a great cover, in case of a bad hair day. It also allows everyone walking by to see his beautiful eyes at the same time. Even though it is freezing in the school, Dan still has to show off his rockin' Mossimo t-shirt. Solution - throw it on top of a plain white shirt and there you go! Twice the warmth, quadruple the style! Dan is sure to get a few smiles coming his way!

Vs. Big Dippers

fashions begin to make sense

Catherine's fashion sense pretty much went out the window when she hit her last year of high school and realized there are more important things in life than style. Her beautiful curly hair spends most of its time in a messy bun, with frizzies in all directions. Her shirt, incredibly unique, was found at a second hand store, and it's the only one she's ever seen. Her jeans are two sizes too big, and she's not sure where she found them, maybe in one of her friends' closets. She holds them up with an old tie. Her old army boots help her battle the brutal King City winter. She is a perfect picture of how important fashion is to an OAC girl.

The year of last impressions. By now we've had four years experience and we practically run the school! No more going to the bathroom in twos and no more slacking off in class. It's time to work...HARD. OACs face a major problem, other than brain-wrenching tests, exams and ISPs. Our hardest decision awaits: WHAT NOW?! Leave our loved ones and head to University or college? Take a year to travel, work, or fix up some marks? Whatever the case, some hard times are sure to follow, because we're choosing the paths of the rest of our lives. Five years at King, and we've learned enough to last a lifetime, even if it's not exactly all school related... We're gonna make it after all, 'cause after all, look what we've been through...(yes, that's a Leader of the Pack reference, but it also refers to coping with destreaming, Camp Tamarack, work to rule, and graduated licensing, not to mention the cancellation of all our favourite OAC classes.) Despite all this, we've turned out to be pretty good kids.

Billy is now in his OAC year and has gone through all of the "I have to look good to get noticed" phases. By this time, Billy hardly cares about anything but doing well in school, and sleeping. Ah yes, sleeping. Notice how Billy's hair is unbrushed and a bit messy under his hat. His hat is falling off and exposing his mop, but by this stage of Billy's life, he could care less. Have you been getting enough rest Billy? The circles under his eyes are just a small part of the stresses of being in OAC. Doesn't it make him more handsome?

Left: Here are some more of those OAC kids (not quite kids anymore) who will be going on to do bigger and better things in the near future. Well, let's hope so!

Circus of the Stars

The Pep Rally gave our stars a time to shine!

With our new mascot struttin' his stuff, the pep rally was off with a bang, and King City came to know what the Lion's Roar really was. Even without the cheerleaders, the "fly girls" kept us boppin' in our seats. A MOO-OFF made everybody thirsty for our milk-a-thon. Wildly cheering on all our fall teams was merely a warm-up for the senior football team's appearance. The team was pumped, and with a final good-luck cheer, they were on their way to slaughter Williams, with a hometown victory of 46 - 6. What more can we say?

Right: These guys, as usual, are cheering for themselves. They deserve this time in the spotlight, they made us proud!

"The Pep Rally was like 1984 all over again... RAD!"

Bryan Taylor
Enthusiastic Fan

"The best part of pep rally is all the crazy green and gold outfits..."

Matt Wren
Leadership Student

"The energy at the pep rally really helped get the football team pumped for the game."

Jay DiFebo
Football Star

"The student council knew that at the pep rally, everyone would be stoked... what a great place to advertize Moola-palooza!"

Lisa Peters

Left: Our pride! Our Joy! Wearing his crown, "Little Man" rides high above the crowd. This just might be the shortest football player at King to go down in history.

Below: The fly girls were the center of attention for five minutes with their jumps, kicks, and smooth moves. The crowd got a surprise when their pants were torn off to reveal their Spice Girl ensembles.

Far Left: If Koah, Nadia and Aubrie are any indication of the rest, it seems like everyone had a blast!

Above: Finally! We got ourself a mascot. No wonder we kicked Williamsbut! Jamie Austin was all hyped in his suit and got the PEP really going in our RALLY!

Below: While all the rest of us run to our buses after school, Catherine models her brand new Chevrolet.

Right: "I'm walking on sunshine, woooh oh, and I'm gonna feel good, yeah..."

Trains, Planes and Anything That Runs ...

We asked KCSS students what vehicle they would drive to school if they could choose anything. Some of the responses were pretty wacky...

"The ultimate vehicle to come to school in would be a Stealth Bomber..."

-Don Plamer

"If it was up to me, I'd crowd-surf to school."

-Amit Bhalla

"'98 Hummer, bright red, beige leather interior."

-Fergus Blair

"I would come by camel back, accompanied by a caravan, or riding an ostrich."

-Matt Sundjian

"I'd have to say a donut, because you could ride on the chocolate frosting and slide around on it. Plus, the bottom, all that cake, has so much padding. It would be so comfortable."

-Triston McKnight

"The Formula One car, driven by Schumaker, with me in the passenger's side."

-Amerigo DeAngelis

Can you tell me how you get, how you get to KCSS?

That's right, whether it's by bus, bike or board, all of us get here one way or another. Maybe we're not exactly happy to be getting up in morn'g, but sometimes it's better than like'n it through the blustery weather. Whatever our mode of transportation, the important thing is, it's gettin' us here.

To Jupiter and Beyond!

We Have Lift Off.

Left: Even at the back of the bus, some people just aren't too thrilled about taking the big yellow cheese wagon home.

Below: When your grandfather is Dean Myers, why take the bus to school?

Left: As Neil Armstrong would say, one small step for teenagers at KCSS, one giant step towards the weekend.

Above: The Lukemobile is off and running during the lunch hour...see you next time, same Luketime, same Lukechannel.

Below: These handana babes, Andrew S. Marco and Andrew K. kept their troops under control and the girls swooning!

Right: Deric looks like he's having fun, just hanging around. The high ropes are definitely one of the highlights at Muskoka Woods (no puns intended).

Above: Ms. Ramer, as the master of ceremonies and most excellent organizer of King Camp did an awesome job of keeping us on schedule. Her speeches were inspirational and made our three days memorable.

Right: Are these grade nines going to make it across the chocolate river before the sharks munch up their marshmallows?

Underneath the Stars at King Camp!

Muskoka Woods Sports Resort was the perfect setting for King Camp 1997. The grade nines enjoyed everything from trust games to high ropes, and had an unforgettable time. New friendships were made between everyone there, and barriers were broken with the senior students. We all learned a lot, including how to get showered and dressed in under five minutes!!! We will always remember "Mitch," the boys serenading the girls, the skills, the dance, the King Camp Pledge, "cabin fever," and the leader's contagious energy. Overall the camp was a total success, leaving us with memories that will last a lifetime.

Left: Does Mr. Gingrich usually get this much attention from his students? Who knows, but these students look pretty interested in his explanation about canoeing.

"Memories give us the strength we need to believe, the strength we need to process, that every day we will have friends. Grade nines will have them right until the end."

Rajan Manocha

"King Camp was a great way to let the grade nines get to know each other and the OACs & gr 12's. The high ropes were the best part!"

Steve Baddley
Camper, Grade 9

"The dance was my favorite part of King Camp. It was so much fun!"

Melanie Dickens
Camper, Grade 9

"A good time had by all, including teachers who participated in all the educational activities."

Mr. Pedersen
Guidance Head

There is so much local talent at our school, that we just had to take a moment to showcase our abilities.

Way down below: As far as we knew, we thought you were supposed to tackle the other team. Maybe these guys just like running into each other?

Below: Around King, Kara and Kim are known for their love of basketball. They live, breathe, eat and sleep the game, and their basketball skills show it!

Top: It looks to us like #5 is about to score a goal. I guess the opponents just weren't good enough to match our team.

Above: The way these guys line up and charge into each other reminds us of the old-fashioned lineups for war. Are the front guys the most dispensible?

It Just Doesn't Get Much Better Than This!

When we asked which teams excelled this year, the answer was all of them. But the Senior Football Team, Senior Girls Basketball, and the Field Hockey Team had such stellar seasons this year that we just had to make special mention...

Left: The girl's field hockey team, led by Mrs. Bollitho, had an incredible year. They are a very strong team, and we're sure that next year they'll go all the way.

Below: There is not much to say about this guy, except that he led the senior football team throughout the season. The whole school is proud of Bobby and his accomplishments, but most of all his team spirit.

Top: Rallying together just before a big game. Believe it or not, they played in the snow.

Left: Heather Brown is a girl who deserves more recognition than she gets for all that she does for King.

Above: Kerri Rumble and Kim Model can be thanked for much of the success for the girls' team. As far as hardwork and dedication go, these two are tops.

I'm your Venus, I'm your fire . . .

Right: When John and Karen first fell for each other, he swept her off her feet, and now he's still doing it. Will he ever let her down? Let's hope not. Cute couple award undoubtedly goes to these two.

Below: Michelle and Steve have so much in common they even dress alike. Who says the men have all the strength? Looks like Michelle wears the pants in this relationship.

Q: WHERE WAS YOUR FIRST KISS?

"My first ever? In my sauna!"

-Darryl Aquino
CAC

Q: WHAT IS YOUR BEST PICK-UP LINE?

"If you kiss me, I'll turn into a prince."

-Ryan Model
gr. 9

Q: WHAT IS YOUR IDEAL DATE?

"A Bjork concert in France and then to a dessert bar to eat cheesecake."

-Liz Tilley
CAC

Q: WHERE WAS YOUR FIRST DATE AND HOW OLD WERE YOU?

"The movies when I was 13."

-Tamera Blair
gr. 9

Far Left: Daniel and Christina don't need to hide under the shade. Everybody knows they're full of sunshine.

Left: Angela definitely has Sean's shoulder to lean on, whether it's at home, work or play.

Below: Holly and Matt always end up together again, they're a picture perfect couple.

Left: Even though Fergus tries to get rid of Lisa, it's all an act. We all know he really digs her.

Below: Ms. Derouin, Ms. Mottola, and Ms. Linkewich are all bundled up for the long day ahead...

Right: By the expression on Mrs. Laing's face, we can see she is serious about her stand on this issue: NO!

Two Weeks of Blustery Weather...

On Monday, October 27th, 1997, 126,000 of Ontario's Public and Catholic school teachers took to the picket lines. Protesting the infamous "Bill 160," the teachers brought along their warmest clothes and made a huge stack of signs stating their cause.

It was the largest protest of its kind, stretching across the whole province and sparking numerous debates. The students, parents, and teachers were all encouraged to get involved and express their opinion.

All of the teachers of KCSS fully supported the protest and made it out to the picket lines every day. They also took trips to the larger protests at Queens' Park and the MPP's office in Aurora.

Thankfully, the community was very supportive of the teachers' efforts and brought them treats, like hot chocolate and cookies, on the picket line.

Back at school, after the two week protest, the "Green Ribbon" campaign was launched to support awareness of concerns.

With the recent passing of Bill 160, we're not sure where education in the future is headed. All we can do is thank our teachers for all their positive efforts and hope for the best.

Stars on Parade

The "Political Protest" had our teachers marching for education!

Left: Mr. Sinyard and Mr. Healy were out on the line. Maybe that cup of coffee came from one of the community supporters.

Above: Reading the daily news to find out where they stand. Mr. Tsimicall and Mr. Shepherd look deep in thought.

Top: The teachers had a warm-up picket line two weeks before the protest.

KCSS is a world of its own, with many places to explore.

Whether we're cramming for a test or just enjoying our lunches, King City kids have a few places we like to hide. The plaza is a popular spot for those of us who like to get away from the pressures of school. However there are some homebodies who prefer to remain close by. Of course we can't forget the teachers, who live the life of luxury in the lovely staff lounge. Their days are filled with clean tables, cushioned chairs and soft sofas. We can't forget the grassy area between the plaza and the school, where almost everybody can be found on a sunny day. Finally, there is the library. What more can we say about that, except that it is way too popular at lunch. Most of the staff meetings are held there after school, as the teachers on these pages show. Don't they look like they're having fun?

Above: Did we mention that a lot of people hang out by their lockers? Our photos certainly prove that point!

Way down below: Mr. Tsimicalis and Mr. Ellison must be eagerly awaiting the commencement of the Staff meeting...either that or they're thrilled that it's over.

Below: We really don't know what the students at King would do without the plaza. Can you imagine if you had to spend all of your day at school?

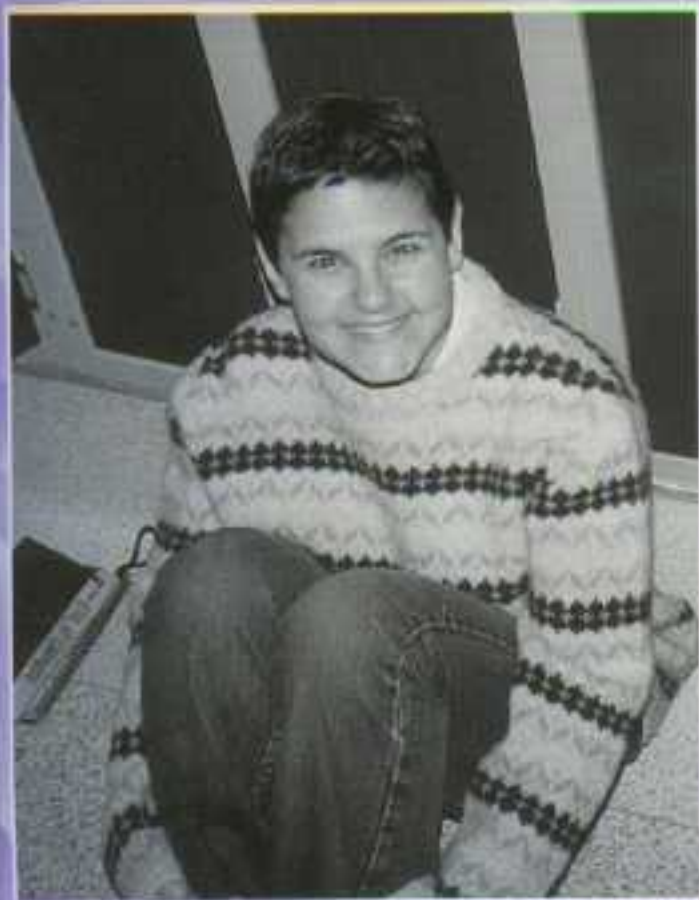

The Black Hole...

Where do you go to disappear into your own corner of the galaxy?

Left: Aubrie, Melissa, Rachael and their friends seem to spend some time hanging out in the hallway. At least they look happy as they meander from class to class.

Below: Ms. Laing and Ms. Greupner can be found spending much of their spare time together. You know when you smell popcorn in the area that one of them is nearby!

Above: It seems that there is an exclusive club over at the plaza that even really important people can't get into without a membership. I wonder what goes on in there?

Top: The locker area is always a good start if you are looking for somebody. People seem to spend a lot of time hanging out there!

Reaching for the Stars

KCSS Students... Achieving Excellence

Right: At the Junior Awards, Kevin, Jon and Sara look pretty proud as they walk off the stage and down the stairs, lucky for them they made it without falling.

The awards ceremonies at King are a great way to show recognition to all those students who have worked hard to achieve academic excellence. In the Junior Awards Ceremony, students in grade nine through twelve are honoured for their accomplishments in anything from the various subjects to environmental awareness. Many of the staff, including Mrs. Bulson, Mr. Bewcyk, and most of the student body are there to cheer everyone on. Even the York Regional Trustee is present to recognize a few lucky students.

Commencement honours King City Secondary's graduating students. It is a momentous occasion for all who receive their diplomas and are recognized for their years at KCSS. Scholarships are handed out to a lucky few who have earned them by showing not only excellence in school, but in life. It is a final farewell to high school, a step towards independence and freedom, and best wishes for success in the "real world."

Left: Nadia Amone was one of the stars of the evening. Not only because of her brilliant smile, but also because of the inspirational valedictory speech that she presented, complete with slides!

Below: Thanks to the efforts of Mrs. Nattress, Mrs. Cholyk, Mrs. Hoffer and the Family Studies Department, the graduates and their families were able to enjoy delicious treats after the ceremony.

Far Left: Mr. Boyd and the Band performed extremely well at Commencement. They obviously practised a great deal!

Above, Left: We will not forget the awkward silence as Geoff White waited to receive his diploma. Fortunately, he and Mr. Sewcyk hammed it up for the audience.

Below: Nick and Nikki may not be twins in blood, but these two have twin smiles that would sure make you think so.

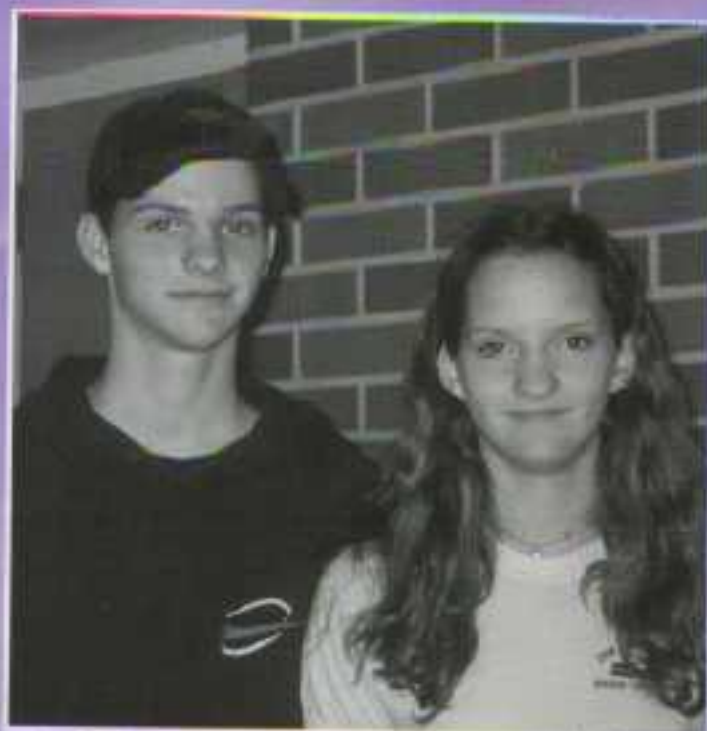

Right: Good looks aren't all that these buff brothers have in common. It looks like they've been bonding at the gym too.

Double Trouble?

Have you ever been bruised and not known why? Chances are you ran into something, but if you're a twin, then maybe your brother or sister did. From what we hear, twins have a bond that's out of this world. Whether it's feeling each other's pain or just inflicting it on each other, these twins are as close as can be. But don't be fooled by these look-alikes, each one is a star on his and her own.

Above: You can't erase either of these two Chalks, they belong together. The question is, who plays ball better? Cam in basketball or Candice in soccer?

Galactic Wonders...

...or have aliens landed and cloned these people???

Left: These boys in flannel and Fila are obviously very excited about having their picture taken for the yearbook. We'd tell you who's who, but we can't even tell Ryan and Chris apart.

Below: Like two peas in a pod, Brandon and Alana Wren always stick together. It must be nice to have someone so close to lean on. We wonder whether they will ever have a famous California zip code?

Left Below: Tamara and Amber Bagg have colgate smiles. They look so much alike that we wonder if they have some sort of supernatural connection.

Live from King City, it's...

CHRISTMAS NIGHT !

On December 19, 1997, King City Secondary School had the privilege of seeing their OACs in action. This parody of Saturday Night Live included: Mary Catherine Gallagher, the Godfather, Austin Powers, cheerleaders, Tsimi Santa, and musical guests the Backstreet Boys and the Spice Girls!

Right: King City "jocks" and their entourage gather at the "local hang-out" to discuss the score!

Below: Jamie shows what he's made of as Austin Powers: International Man of Mystery! "You can split my atoms anytime. YEAH BABY YEAH!"

Mr. Valeda (James Gang) brings a long list of requests to the teacher's Christmas Party, some of which include an accent over his name, a car, and lizards!

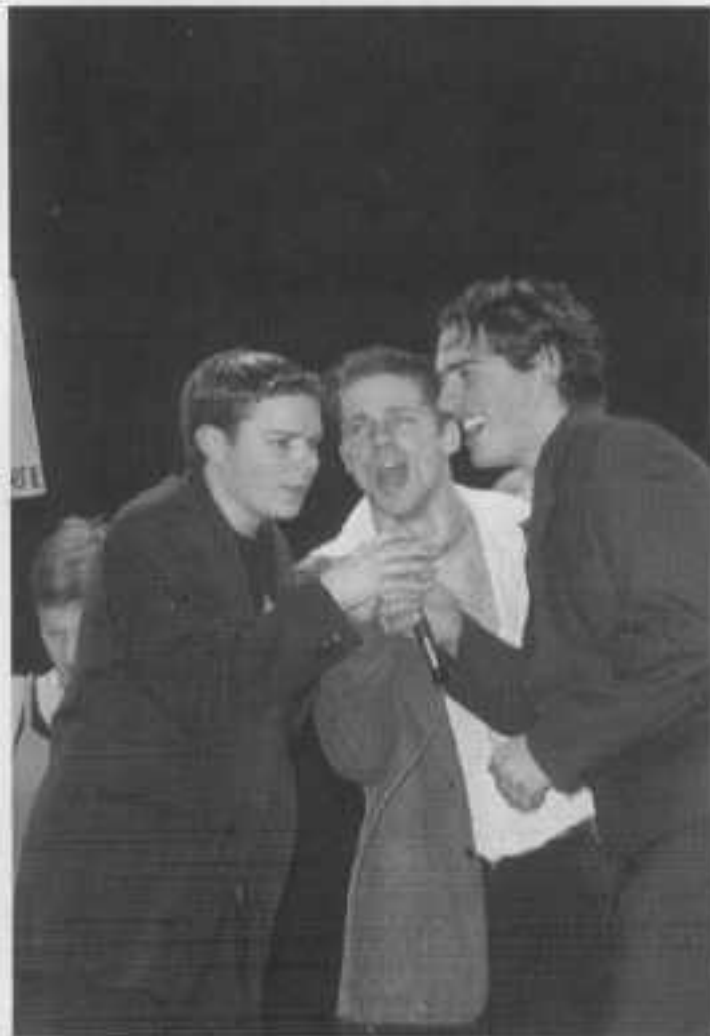

Heather's portrayal of Ms. Ramer was all too accurate. Surprisingly, she asked Tsimi Santa for a new turtle neck to match her socks!

Mr. Bocknek (Matt Carvonen) bounded into the X-mas Party. "Ching, ching, chu-ng, chung" to which Tsimi replied "I don't have time for this!"

Tsimi Santa was not too impressed with Ms. Wells' (Erin) miming ability. His reply was simply "GET OUT!"

Left: Steve, Ferg and Jamie, attempt to find a Christmas Party that suits their style! "Baby don't hurt me, don't hurt me, no more! WoahHooWoahHoo!"

Below: Norm MacDonald, of It's News to me, examines the effects of the "Political Protest" on the students of KCSS. Apparently Algebra is the only class available! "He ate my red crayon too!"

Left: The Backstreet Boys (Sam, Liz, Lisa, Jen, Sarah and Bryony) make an unexpected appearance to perform "Everybody", and make wishes come true for the Spice Girls!

As Bright as The Sun....

King City Secondary School really does have its own circus. When given the chance to showcase their talent, the sky's the limit at KCSS!

Liz shows off one of her many talents. Not only is she president of the student council, but she can also make art with her mouth! "I like to whistle like a foghorn!"

If anyone knows John, they know he has the face of a certain sneaky pet detective! Here he shows off his resemblance to the plastic faced star, "Bumblebeetuna"

New to King City Secondary School is Mr. Valada. He calls this stunt 'the Scorpion'. Can you guess why? Ask not what physics can do for you, but what you can do for physics."

Above: "Just like everything we do, sticking your tongue up your nose has its pros and cons. One advantage being it works great when your hands are busy, but on the down side, it is extremely easy to pull a muscle!" - Suzanne Bowerman

Right: Somehow, despite a heavy course load, Rob finds the time to balance large objects on his chin during tech class. Apparently, this is just one of his many talents. In his own words, "lawn maintenance can be boring".

Left: Becky and Lana show off the holes they have willingly pierced in their tongues. The only negative thing they had to say about their appendages was that they tended to drool a lot when they first had them done.

Far Left: Brandon and Nathan show off their suave pen twirling techniques. It's kind of like twirling a baton.

Left: Milk chugging is just one of the exciting things that students here at King like to do. Jamie "the Milk monster" was the first to compete in the chugging contest (he's the one on the left), but he gave up his title to Fergus on the first try!

This is James. Incredibly enough, he has learned to master the art of regurgitation grapes. Notice the peeled and unpeeled grapes in his mouth. He is about to swallow them, whole.

Once he has swallowed the grapes, it is our job to tell him which one we would like him to regurgitate. For our purposes here, we have asked for the unpeeled grape.

Clearly, he has brought up the correct grape. "Regurgitating grapes is a lot like life: sometimes life comes out one end and sometimes the other. The important thing is being able to swallow what comes out." -J. Gangl

This year's semi formal was held at El Presidente in Concord on Friday, the 13th of February. Right from the start it was evident that it would not be a night like all others. The banquet hall was beautifully decorated by the Student Council with many red, heart-shaped balloons and streamers in a Valentine's Day theme. All the students who attended had a great time, especially when Bobby Fagogenis and Mrs. Bulson boogied down! That really got the crowd excited! Thanks to the teachers for coming out to share the evening with us, and to the Student Council for organizing everything and setting up. It was an evening to remember.

Below: The OAC ladies pose for a picture in the midst of their busy socializing. As for Liz, everyone has their problems!

Far Right: Have you ever seen two more beautiful young faces?

Starstruck

Even though it was held on Friday the thirteenth, the Semi-Formal sure was a success this year!

Far Left: Jenn, a new addition to yearbook this year, has proven that not only is she reliable, she can be a lot of fun too!

Above: Nobody, but nobody looked more stylish than these three jokers. Thanks for the laugh, guys.

Left: Chloe and Marisa stunned the crowds with their sophisticated outfits, boa and all!

One of the most important aspects of your career at King is your academic success. If you set high goals for yourself, take a few risks, and persevere, you will ultimately, undoubtedly achieve all that you pursue. With the help of dedicated teachers, and your own personal determination, graduation from King is only a small step away. On planet King, you don't need to look very far to find Intelligent Life.

THE FINAL FRONTIER

For some of us this is our last year at KCSS, but even for those of us coming back, this is our final year with everyone. We've got to start acting our age and finally grow up after four years of goofing off and never really worrying about the real stuff. We're going to be the head honchos next year, but in the mean time, we're going to have a blast.

Whether it's eating lunch under the stairwell, or taking one of Ms. Bolitho's "girly gym" classes, the girls are always found in herds. This probably doesn't surprise you because we all know how they go to the bathroom together, no matter what. Guys, on the other hand, are found by themselves most of the time, but their posse is always close by.

Finally, almost all of us have our licenses, and now we're getting a taste of freedom. For some of the lucky people who have cars, there's no more running for the bus at 7:30 a.m., but even for the rest of us, at least it means we don't have to call mom for a ride home at 1 a.m.

Thank heaven... Grade Eleven!

We're now in Grade Eleven! Is our glass half empty or half full? Some of us would say "YAY! We've already been here for two whole years and we only have two more to go!" While others think "What? We've only been here for two full years and we still have two more long ones!" But deep inside, we all know that highschool is an exhilarating five year experience that none of us could live without. Grade eleven is the best year of all. The spotlight is on us! We are learning to drive, and our real social lives have begun. But don't fall too deeply into this never-ending pit of molten lava. All fun and no work is a bad combination that will result in an F on your report card, not to mention a whole lot of yelling from your parents. By this age, we know how to ration our time so we can please our parents and most importantly: ourselves. By now, our teachers realize that most of us aren't the trouble making, loud mouth brats that we once were. The pictures below are just some of our grade eleven rascals causing mischief.

Things that grade elevens like to do on weekends

Stay home and watch Dukes of Hazard re-runs until midnight.

Go to a Karaoke Night and sing until the break of dawn.

Sunday Night Sex Show with Sue Johansen (Hey, we have nothing better to do)

Play tag in the park until our moms
call us in for dinner.

Go to weekend eucharist club tournaments and show off our talent.

Sing along to Backstreet Boys until we've mastered every single move.

Watch the Spice Girls Movie four weekends in a row (but just to laugh at them, of course).

Play a tough game of bridge with granny and her buddies.

Internet chat lines to SexyMad.
HotLips@baton.com all night long.

DO OUR HOMEWORK!!!!!!!!!!
(because we all love to cozy up by a straw fireplace, cuddling out textbooks, or romancing our Macbeth play with a warm mug of cocoa.)

Grade ten has come and gone so fast. It wasn't so long ago that we were "minor niners" ourselves! Now, we know what we're doing! We no longer aimlessly wander the halls. We're all grown up, and spares are just a summer away. In Grade ten, we have more freedom and choices. We are even more independent, with the opportunity to get our driver's licences soon. The key to this: no more riding shot gun for us!

Grade ten is a big step from grade nine, yet it is also a far cry from grade eleven. We're looking towards the future, while embracing the past. We've learned so much, but we still have so much to learn. We've got our whole lives ahead of us. It seems like we've come so far, yet we have so far to go. As we leave grade ten, we are left with nothing but fond memories of the past and high hopes for what's to come in the future.

GERALDENE

A new school with new experiences, friends, teachers, relationships, classes, and a whole bunch of other stuff. In general it's a new everything. It's a lot to take in. We will always remember how intimidated we were on the first day of school and how King Camp allowed us to meet new people and just feel more comfortable. We worked hard to define ourselves. Some of us were so well defined that we even caught the eyes of senior students, others were just totally ignored and most of us...most of us were totally dominated by John Fagogenis. We can't let it get us down though. We still have the next three or four years to make up for it.

Right: Mr. Ellison and a former student are reacquainted at commencement.

Below: Ms Linkerwich, Ms Derssain and Ms Mottola are the epitome of the phrase ... "You can't find one without the others."

Centre: Ms Hoddy and Mrs Scully dive into the punch bowl after a tiring commencement ceremony.

Above: On a bitterly cold day in October, Ms Dukal and Ms Hunter take to the streets, their signs in tow.

Right: Mallory, mallorah, mallory, mallorah-ha-ha-ha-ha!

Far Right: "If I wasn't a teacher I'd be a ballerina" Mrs Santos struts her stuff.

As old as the...

Take Me To Your Leader...

Tomorrow's leaders are mentored by the best at K.C.S.S.

Right: Mr. Harrison, Mr. Tacinicalus, and Mrs. Duncan come out to show their milk chugging talent at Moolapoloosa.

Below: Mr. McLeod and Mr. Gingrich sit back and relax on their free time in the staff lounge.

Mr. Atkins, a.k.a. Jack of All Trades, has a very diverse timetable this year, from keyboarding to gym, but you can usually find him hanging out in the business office.

Mr.
Atkins

Mr. Valeda is a teacher of sciences who is very environmentally friendly. He has travelled around the world, including New Zealand where he bungee jumped.

Mr.
B-Valeda

As vice principal of our school, Mr. Bewcyk keeps us all in line. But sometimes he likes to let it loose and hang like a kid. His b-ball skills at King Camp showed this.

Mr.
Bewcyk

Mr. Bocknek is one of those teachers that really loves what he does. From the bounce in his walk to his "happy math karate chops" this man surely knows his times tables!

Mr.
Bocknek

Ms. Bolitho is smart and sporty! She not only teaches science, but is also a dedicated gym teacher. Not to mention the junior volleyball coach.

Ms.
Bolitho

Mr. Boyd's love for music is obvious when you see him conducting his talented group of band musicians. And his resemblance to Santa is remarkable.

Mr.
Boyd

Left: We hear that one day Mr. Gould is going to take up acting, his first choice being a Mr. Clean commercial.

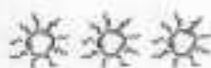

Left: After the rush of students go home, the caretakers can relax and frolic.

Below: Even while working hard after school, Mr. Healy can still manage a smile.

As our schools faithful guidance secretary, Mrs. Brady is always there to comfort us after making a decision that could either send us to university or to clown college.

Mrs.
Brady

Mr. Bullock is famous for his Particle Dance where he flies around the room and knocks tables over. Hey, its better than blowing up the classroom like he did once before.

Mr.
Bullock

This is the woman that everyone in the school comes to with their problems. How does she deal with all the whining students? With a smile!

Mrs.
Bulson

Ms. Cholyk is known for her amazing Pop Can Campaign, and her great fashion sense. After being in her class, you'll be the next Martha Stewart!

Ms.
Cholyk

Mr. Chvalevich is a huge part of sports at our school. His philosophical views are always a pleasure to listen to, debate or fall asleep to!

Mr.
Chvalevich

Ms. Cronin obviously has a knack for science. But, then again, she can do anything she puts her mind to.

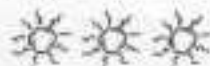

Ms.
Cronin

Right: Our VP, Mr. Bewryk, chose to hibernate rather than watch our Senior Boys basketball team play in Florida over the December Vacation.

Below: Ms. Chlorakos and Mr. Harris stop in the hall for a quick chat over "thank you" pizza and pop from the student council.

As one of the student teachers from Queens University, Mr. Cleary participated in many events such as King Camp and lunch hour theatre.

Mr. Cleary

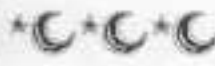

This smile brightens up the school whenever she is around. Those lucky business students, they get to see her every other day!

Ms. Duncan

Ms. D'Angelo is an enthusiastic teacher in math, science, and computers. If you have ever had her you know she is a very creative and determined person.

Ms. D'Angelo

Mrs. Ella Arnold is a swift math teacher, who is also fast on her feet. She runs around the classroom in a math frenzy trying to make trig make sense.

Ms. Ella - Arnold

Isn't this a student? Oops, it's Ms. Derouin! Not only is she the head of yearbook, she teaches english and business, which makes her a busy lady!

Ms. Derouin

Mr. Ellison is a unique character. His sense of humour and sarcasm makes his history classes all that more fun and interesting.

Mr. Ellison

Left: Mr. Shepherd looks pretty happy to finally have a chance to sit down and relax. Either that or somebody just told a funny joke.

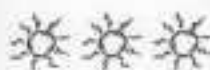

Left: Cherish this picture. It's probably the only time you'll ever see him without his tie and pocket protector.

Below: Mr. Bullock, best known for his infamous particle dance also enjoys a slice of "thank you" pizza.

Mr. Gingrich can make anyone's engine run, literally! He has a passion for motors and gets those babies purrin' like they've never purred before!

Mr.
Gingrich

Ms. Griffith has two jobs at school. "Two?" you ask. Yes, two. She makes sure the students are not illegally parking or ditching class when there's a big test.

Ms.
Griffith

Ah, bonjour! Ooh la la, who's the man in the plaid shirt and tacky tie? It's our french genius, Monsieur Gould! His clothes alone keep the students' attention!

Mr.
Gould

This wacky english teacher participates in everything from intramural volleyball to fashion clashing with those awesome suspenders!

Mr.
Harrison

Ms. Greupner has many leadership qualities from Strike Captain to organizer of the Camera Club. She should try b-ball next!

Ms.
Greupner

Not only is he Deputy Mayor of Aurora and an outstanding hockey player, he is also a knowledgeable geography teacher.

Mr.
Healy

Captains of Our Mothership...

Thanks for guiding us in the right direction.

Right: A recent addition to our school is the internet and the person who fixes it, Mr. Canning! Here, he's showing Ms Smith how to change all the students' marks on their report cards. Surprise kids!

Below: Mr. Allen looks puzzled. He must be marking test papers and he can't read the writing of his students! Try harder Mr. Allen, look past all the white out and scratched out words to see what this student is really trying to tell you about history!

Ms. Hoddy shows up every other day but her work is of full time quality. She is a very dedicated teacher and her students appreciate her enthusiasm.

Hoddy

This witty french teacher also helps organize the student exchange programs, allowing our students to broaden their horizons.

Ms
Horak

As head of the math department, Ms Hunter has a lot of responsibility. Yet, she still manages to feed knowledge into the heads of her eager students.

Ms
Hunter

Many of us are computer illiterate but Mr Ianni has started to solve this problem by introducing us to the way of the future.

Mr
Ianni

This tech teacher takes tremendous time to teach talented teens to tinker with tools. These students will definitely go far with these aquired skills.

Mr
Jurgeneit

Ms Laing is so energetic about teaching, that you can sometimes see her bouncing off walls while teaching her students about Shakespeare.

Ms
Laing

Left: Wow! Mrs. Bulson really loves her position at K.C.S.S., she's even wearing a King City jersey. Hey, she's got school spirit!

Left: Here is Mr. Chvalovich posing outside on a beautiful sunny day. What you can't see, is his Junior Football team on the other side of the track, half dead from the 100 laps they are forced to do every practice.

Below: After a grueling day of loud teenagers, Ms. Nattress shows a smile of relief because she will soon be at home in front of a warm fireplace with a good book.

Ms. Linkewich has an array of interests including geography, history and yes of course, YEARBOOK!

Ms. Linkewich

This interesting fellow known as Mr. McLeod is an English whiz. Ask him about sentence structure and you'll be talking for hours!

Mr. McLeod

This warm smiling face greets all the french and german speaking students of K.C.S.S. every morning. She also has a big part in the student exchange program.

Ms. Mispel-Beyer

Ms. Mitchell is another one of our guidance counselors who helps us get our crazy lives on track. Without her, every graduate would still depend on their parents!

Ms. Mitchell

When a student leaves Ms. Mottola's history classroom, they are practically qualified archaeologists. Students actually WANT to be in her class!

Ms. Mottola

Sewing, darning, cooking and baking...Ms. Nattress does it all! Even the grade eight's from the public school come to see her beaming face and to learn about family studies.

Ms. Nattress

Right: Working closely on Student Council and administration would drive anyone including Mrs. Duncan, Mr. Bewcyk and Ms. Ranieri crazy.

Below: Mr. Ellison ponders yet another historical mystery... He is only enlightened by asking the two female members of the history department Ms. Mottola and Ms. Linkewich.

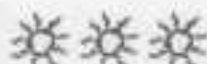

Ms Pania is a Co-op student from Queens University specializing in phys.ed and sciences. A great addition to King, she'll be sure to go far.

Ms Pania

Not only does Ms. Ramer teach, she has been a great help to the newcomers. She organized this year's King Camp, a great success.

Ms Ramer

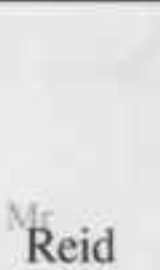

An asset to the business department, Ms. Ranieri keeps her students in line. When the teaching's done, she takes on SAC and the prin. executive.

Ms Ranieri

Almost a stranger to the classroom, Mr. Reid has been a great new leader on our sports teams. He's head of SAC, and coach of volleyball and Hockey.

Mr Reid

Head of the english department, Mr. Robson doesn't stop there. He shows his love for tennis on the courts with the KCSS team.

Mr Robson

A lover of books, Ms. Santos keeps our library intact. When the library's free of students she helps out on STAND, hosting many luncheons.

Ms Santos

Left: Mr. Parkins puts on a smile . . . little do we know that he is holding up the lockers behind him.

Left: Mrs. Scully's smile indicates that she is not swamped yet by paperwork . . . Just wait until the second week of school.

Below: By the look on Mr. Lubin's face it seems that his grade 9 class is performing a comedy.

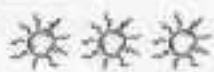

Head of sciences, Mr. Sartor's helping us all figure things out. Known to his students as head of overheads, he's developed a style of his own.

Mr. Sartor

Never without a smile on her face, Mrs. Scully helps us all through the day. Teaching guidance and special ed, she can always be found with her arms full.

Mrs. Scully

Exposing our students to the outside world, Mr. Shepherd is the head of co-op. His work goes beyond the classroom to police departments, vets and mechanics.

Mr. Shepherd

Always looking out for the environment, Mrs. Smith takes an enthusiastic approach to all of her classes, ensuring that work gets done.

Mrs. Smith

Mrs. Spratt gets the pleasure of visiting all our late and truism students as she monitors attendance. She'll make you think twice about skipping our next class.

Mrs. Spratt

Taking on the task of teaching, Ms. Stulberg, a co-op student from Queens did not go unnoticed. We hope to see her back full-time some day soon.

Ms. Stulberg

We think sometimes they're in the 'Twilight Zone'...

...it is only later that we realize how it all made sense!

Right: Playing hard or hardly playing? Ms Devouin and Ms. Mottola chill out after a hard afternoon on the volleyball court. Banter has it that the teachers put up quite a fight during the lunch hour games.

Below: Ms Hoddy takes a moment to reflect on her busy day. When she is not teaching business, Ms Hoddy is on the road travelling to visit one of her many co-op students. We often wonder what her daily caffeine intake would be?

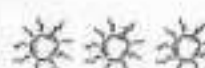

Mr. Thompson is a brilliant math teacher, and is never seen without his morning cup of coffee - a vital for a day of equations or geometry.

Mr.
Thompson

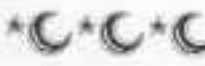

Best known as the "funny math guy", Mr Tsimicalis has a way with numbers. He loves a good laugh, evident during the Christmas assembly.

Mr.
Tsimicalis

Ms Wells, a dedicated french and drama teacher is better known for her spirited voice as co-host of the morning announcements and her dramatic flair.

Ms.
Wells

As a geography teacher, Mrs Whitfield loves physical geography. She wows her students with wonders of the world. She is a dedicated mother, too.

Mrs.
Whitfield

Mrs Wood is easy to find in room 101, helping students and teachers. She is an avid traveller who has seen Canada's most remote places in the Arctic.

Mrs.
Wood

If you are looking for a guidance counsellor, Mr Wright's your man. He also teaches phys ed, and loves to coach hockey and football.

Mr.
Wright

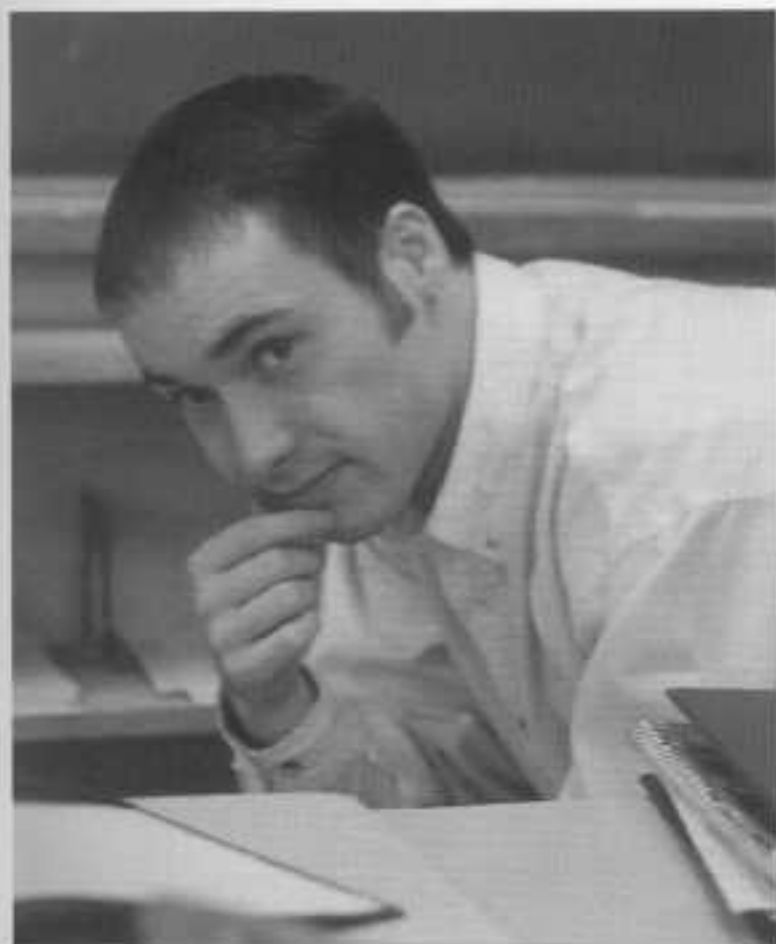

Left: Mr. Bocknek peers into 3 dimensional space as he attempts to explain a new math concept to his eagerly awaiting students.

Left: Believe it or not, Mr. Harris actually enjoys the head-rush he gets when he walks on his hands. We wonder whether he is trying to get a little closer to nature?

Below: Mrs. Whitfield spends a stressful moment finishing her marking. It will only be a matter of time before she is overcome by exhaustion.

Left: Mr. Cleary, a student teacher at King, seems to be bent over, contemplating the meaning of life, like the statue of The Thinker.

Above: Ms. Wells certainly looks like she enjoys writing on the chalk board. It is a good thing that she is not allergic to chalk dust.

Masters of the Universe!

On a mission for the truth behind the people who rule the school . . .

"All I really wanna do is DANCE!" These are the words of your student council president, Liz Tilley. She has taken time out of her hectic schedule of . . . playing field hockey, soccer and curling, camera club, VIP, shopping at Value Village and the local garage sales, and DRINKING MILK! to run your school. Mrs. Bulson's busy schedule IS trying to control the school. Always trying to please the Board of Education, the students, and the parents takes its toll. In the spare time she does have, she enjoys camping, hiking, making stained glass and attempting to work her magic on the pottery wheel. Both agree that running the school is hard work!

Q: How did you acquire your current position?

A: Liz: I made some really nice silk-screen posters, I gave out suckers, and I knew lots of people that I could get to vote for me.

A: Mr. Perkins: I was acclaimed to this position by Mrs. Bulson.

A: Erin: I said I was interested and no one wanted to take it on, so I got it.

A: Jon: I had to get the interest and faith of students, write a speech, and have a strong campaign.

One difference you will have no trouble identifying between Mr. Bewcyk and Bobby Fagogenis is definitely their opposite tastes in hair styles. While Bobby goes for the attention-getting, frizzy, uncontrollable mop, Mr. Bewcyk goes for the conservative look. Wonder why? Bobby's jobs are: filling in Liz with information, showing up at school events and having school spirit. Mr. Bewcyk spends 80% of the day dealing with discipline issues and the other 20% with students, attendance, and any other problems. He is also the school's curling coach. Bobby spends time playing sports, football, and at school.

Erin Wilbur and Mrs. Brady help keep the school organized. Mrs. Brady assists in guidance by making appointments, entering data into the computer and keeping documents on the students. In her spare time, she goes to night school, spends time with friends, and has fun at the knitting guild. Erin does the minutes and attendance at meetings, takes in mail, responds to phone calls from anxious DJ's, and acts as Liz's side kick in times of need. She doesn't have much spare time, but tries to make time for friends and homework. She is also currently teaching aerobics at the school.

Mr. Perkins and Jon Duck are the money men. Mr. Perkins is responsible for keeping track of the money, keeping the books balanced, and keeping the accounts under control. He has held this position for two years and also finds time to be the junior hockey coach and runs DECA. In his spare time he plays hockey and golf. Jon assists the Financial Advisor in preparation of necessary floats for sales and fills out/submits any cheque requisitions to pay for any expenditures within. He accounts for all money incomes (sports, latebus, yearbook, registration, DECA).

Mrs. McGinley and Lisa Peters are the Student Teacher Liaison. Matthew Romantini is our other Student Teacher Liaison, but was not present for the photo. Lisa's duties include relaying monthly what Student Council is doing to School Council. In the spare time she does have, she spends it either sleeping or going out with her friends. Mrs. Ginley keeps very busy attending monthly Parent Council Meetings and dealing with guidance issues.

Mr. Mallory, Cheryl Smits, and Kristyn Kowalewski are the Social Conveners/Public Relation Officers of the school. Cheryl advertises events and interacts with the students. Kristyn helps to plan and organize school events, Mr. Mallory organizes many successful after-school events for the teachers, such as the Christmas party and amazing Euchre tournament.

MR. RACSEK-VALEDA

The well travelled Mr. Valeda, as he prefers to be called, is just one of the two new additions to the KCSS science department. Mr. Valeda went to school in Germany on an exchange program and taught in Hungary for a year. Mr. Valeda would like all of the KCSS student to know that he has spent most of his life as a student and he can empathize with us.

MR. ATKINS

A man of many hats, a man of many fruits and a new addition to our business department, Mr. Atkins is all of these and more! Mr. Atkins decided that if he could be any animal that he wanted he would be a crocodile, figuring that they've been around awhile and they must be doing something right.

Jump into the Black Hole

As a new teacher at KCSS, anything can happen.
Beware!

MS.
CHLORAKOS

It was not so long ago that Ms. Chlorakos walked along these halls herself. No, not as a teacher, Ms. Chlorakos was once a KCSS student like you and me. Ms. Chlorakos brings a shining face and bright ideas to our KCSS math and science department.

MR. PEDERSEN

"One never knows what we will encounter, so let's begin." These are just a few of the words of wisdom that Mr. Pedersen can offer you. He is the newest addition to the KCSS guidance department and the KCSS guidance department is happy to have him!

MR. REID

Coach of the girls volleyball team, Mr. Reid can be found among many of our extremely athletic Physical Education teachers. Mr. Reid, who teaches Phys. Ed. and leadership, is extremely happy to be here at KCSS, almost as happy as we are to have him here!

MR. SUKERMAN

Mr. Sukerman is one of the two additions to the science department. He is commonly mistaken for Superman (we figure it's because he can fly!!). Mr. Sukerman would like to be a chameleon so that he can fit into any crowd and smack the obnoxious kid at the back of the classroom with his long tongue!!

MR. CANNING

If ever you need a VCR, or a TV, Mr. Canning is the guy that you need to see. Mr. Canning, the new Audio/Visual Technician here at KCSS is a crucial part of the KCSS staff. He is a good guy to be nice to, as he is in charge of delivery of AV equipment. Welcome to KCSS!

King is well known for its sports teams and clubs. When we look back on our high school career, our fondest memories will revolve around the relationships that we built after school. Whether we are sweating at practice, competing in a game or planning an event, taking part in the extra-curricular life at King is a once in a lifetime opportunity that everyone should experience.

Shooting STARS

Right: In our fundraiser this year we sold entertainment booklets that sold for $32.00 a book. It was a success and our teams and students benefitted with funding and prizes.

Below right: Is this what really goes on at SAC meetings?? Well, despite Ray and Laurie's argument, most are calm, tranquil, productive, and never boring!

Below: The annual STAND welcome banquet is the best place for our students to meet others.

Right: SAC members workin' hard at doin' that SAC thing. We're glad we've got girls like Brynny, Pam, Michelle, Sarah and Jan to keep everything under control!

Below: A newcomer stores in awe at the food served at the STAND luncheon on October ninth.

Keeping The Planets Aligned...

Come rain, sleet, snow, or shine, these clubs help keep our galaxy running finell

The club that plans and runs many events, the Student Council had their work cut out for them this year. Due to the political protest, all their plans had to be altered! Nonetheless, they came through with a great year!

The Student Athletic Council provides the support for our schools sports teams. Overseen by student council and helped by the leadership class, SAC supplies a much needed backbone for our school's up and coming stars.

Stand Together And Never Divide is known as STAND. Best known for their yummy welcoming banquet and UNICEF drive, STAND promotes inter-racial harmony in our school. They work very hard at all they do.

DECA is a business group where you compete in certain aspects of the business environment. It was advised by Mr. Perkins. This club allows you to show your leadership skills and meet new and interesting people!

The Good Lookin' Student Council

Peace Promotin' STAND

OK, so this club forgot to submit their names. We won't hold it against them. The important thing is that Mr. Black, Mrs. Whitfield and especially Mrs. Santos all work very hard to make this club its best. This really shows, because the club gets bigger every year!

Below: Amy, Liz, and Naomi watch carefully as Ms. Geisner prepares a photo. Aren't they supposed to be in the dark, considering they are in the dark room?

Above: Jen is all smiles when it comes to ROCK. It is obvious that she loves to spend time with fellow members.

Right: Naomi's not used to being on this side of the camera, she's usually the one behind the camera snapping shots with the camera club.

These organizations are very unique to our school. The Angel Tree, Camera Club, ROCK, and Peer Tutoring make up some of the Clubs in Our Constellation

Angels from Above

These students devoted a lot of time during the Christmas season to the Angel Tree toy drive. KCSS students were asked to donate new toys to the children less fortunate. Everyone was generous during the giving season.

Paparazzi at KCSS

These creative clickers are headed up by Ms. Gruepner who teaches them everything from film developing to taking shots with interesting angles. Who knows, these students may be professional photographers in the future!

Praying for Peace

The members of ROCK believe in building friendships through their common beliefs in religion. They get together often, to hang out, get to know each other and to be supportive in everything they do.

Teachers in Training

The students in peer tutoring want to make normal old schoolwork exciting for the younger students they tutor. With this group of outgoing individuals they definitely do just that.

The Angel Tree

Below: Even after a grueling grade 9, Mr. Boyd managed to hold on to Andrew the trumpet player.

Right: Tamara Peddle is obviously laughing at another one of Mr. Boyd's cheesy jokes or at the camera in her face.

Below Right: Tracie, Laura, and Natalie try to blow away the competition... mainly the over-powering clarinets.

Below: Caroline and Kelly are anxiously waiting for the trip to New York City.

Below: Looking like he has control over the band, Mr. Boyd waves his arms in an effort to produce good music.

K.C.S.S. wouldn't be the same without music!

The Big Band Theory

King City Secondary School is lucky to have a music department that contributes so much personality to the school. Our fearless leader, Mr. Boyd, can always be counted on for an overly optimistic attitude, especially at our 7am band practices. All the music students know they're learning from a master because he's been in bands all his life. Aside from his occasional bad jokes at our concerts, we can almost always say we're proud to know him. As for keeping the classroom in order, that's another story, but hey, that's half the fun of music. Every year a student is honoured with a music award and over the years King has produced many talented musicians. We owe all our accomplishments to the dedication of the students and teachers. Music also allows us to become more cultured, with annual international trips and exposure to the finer things in life, like the Toronto Symphony Orchestra. How can we forget Wednesday night rehearsals, cramming before concerts and our continual dedication to practise, practise, practise!

Stuck in the Middle: Intermediate Band

Top of the Scale: Concert Band

Our Miss Brooks

The play is the story of a frazzled school teacher who is trying to put on a decent school play. With the help of some wonderful students, a meddling PTA parent, an angry principal, and a good looking gym teacher, Miss Brooks finally pulls it off. The play is a great time for everyone involved. The cast becomes the best of friends, and cast parties become regular weekend rituals. Though many a late night were spent fine-tuning to perfection, the end result was spectacular! You could say that Ms Wells was the perfect Miss Brooks... minus the gym teacher.

Back: Ms. Wells, C. Hamilton, T. McKnight, J. Prior, M. Rousseton, J. Sower, Mr. Libby, A. D'Am. Middle: M. Mackenzie, L. Wright, B. D'Angelo, S. Miller, S. Coleman, M. Kavanagh, R. Evans, B. Biggs. Front: M. MacKenzie, L. Wright, J. Gough, E. Wilford, L. Ross, M. MacLennan. Missing: S. Cassano, the rest of the crew, Mrs. Patterson.

The Yearbook X Files

Agent: Devlin Derouin

X File: The case of the ever-disappearing yearbook staff. They just keep leaving, and then we catch a glimpse of them, and then they're gone again....

Comments: I'm supposed to talk about yearbook stuff in this space, but instead I'm going to use it to thank Erin, our editor. Working with you has meant much more to me than just fun, and without you we couldn't have done it. Thanks, with all my heart.

Agent: Logical Linkewich

X File: The case of the photographers who are asked to take photos and claim to take photos...Then, when the film comes back, there are no photos.

Comments: Everything was going great until the printer died. Thank goodness this will be a course next year. But, seriously, I have had a great year and might even volunteer to help if I go through yearbook withdrawal next year.

Agent: Warper Wilbur

X File: The case of the retail pages which I swear I DID, but then they disappeared... And then, there was the grade, but I'm not even going to go there!

Comments: Thanks Ms D for everything, you really made all of this worthwhile. I'll never forget the "good yearbook times" mostly thanks to you. Ms Link, you stick for the book, it's a pretty thankless job and it's amazing to see a teacher give up their free time to do it. Belin, Jim, and Rian, you guys certainly went out of your way to help you're all awesome! I might miss everyone I was working with but I'm glad it's all over.

Agent: Wonderful Wilbur

X File: The case of the students who bought student ads, but then when pay-up time came, the students were nowhere to be found! Yes, we love those pink cheeks...

Agent: Mastermind Major

X File: The case of helping a certain yearbook staffer who isn't quite sure what's going on, especially with croppers...yah, everyone has their problems...

Agent: Studious Salmon

X File: The case of the crashing computers, which always chose to crash after we have typed in the grade write-ups for the 100th time!!

Agent: Cocky Cork

X File: The case of the girl who could never think of captions, so she always asked everyone else what to write, until she drove them all crazy!

Agent: Cutie Cutler

X File: The case of the girl who never stopped smiling and being nice to everyone... and often spent long hours at her locker before she actually made it to yearbook...

Agent: Crazy Corlett

X File: The case of another girl who smiled a lot, but this girl had to literally be torn away from her boyfriend by the yrbk staff just to get her here on time!

Agent: Antsy Anderson

X File: The case of the girl who had many many questions, about almost everything, but always worked really hard at finishing the task at hand.

Agent: Marvelous Mathews

X File: The case of the girl who thought she was only joking about the computer eating her page, until the computer actually ate her yearbook page...

Agent: Rowdy Roberts

X File: The case of the girl who just couldn't make the croppers work... maybe it would help if you came on once or twice during field hockey season...

Agent: Magical Moyser

X File: The case of the girl who barely ever made it on time because of her co-op, but when she did she would always slip in at the last minute...

Agent: Super Suraski

X File: The case of the yrbk member who seemed to get lost between the yearbook office and the volleyball court... but always got here in time to pose for a photo.

Agent: Practical Parisi

X File: The case of the girl who was a blonde-haired double. She seemed to get lost between the yrbk office and the volleyball court, too. Pretty strange, eh?

Agent: Mysterious Mauti (yes, we run out of M's)

X File: The case of the disks that always seemed to disappear when they were left somewhere... I'm sure they'll turn up someday...

Agent: Flamboyant Fagogenis

X File: The case of the strange man who showed up when we needed him the most, and always did his best to lend a hand.

A Yearbook Adventure

1 The yearbook inherited a whole new office this year, way out in the far reaches of the tech hall. This meant even further walks to the computer lab upstairs. And you thought the only way to get a workout was to join a team...

Meetings were often long and productive, providing there were any staff members there. On many nights, there were only a few staff members working, as you can see. 2

The pressures of yearbook are often pretty intense, driving members to do odd things. To "chill out" Rian takes his homework outside. 3

Staff members learn quickly that the school computers are very, very evil. It could take hours to finish a page, and when it is finally done and about to be saved to the disk (which takes forever), they disappear - never to be found! 6

It's no joke that working on the yearbook takes over your life...here Robin and Ms Lankewich stop in the middle of their rush to classes and take a minute to see what still has to be done. 4

Then there are pictures that we have for 7
GO JERRON...

The looks on these ladies' faces prove that working on the yearbook can actually be fun. Sort of. From time to time, there are some laughs, and some rewards for all our hard work. Despite this when it's all over, there will be some pretty happy people: namely an editor, and two staff advisors. 8

These bright and happy faces are known for always being in other people's faces...they're the yearbook photographers! Who else could call a team photo and forget to show up? Just kidding... Top row: Rian McNamara, Carrah Bullock, Rina D'Angelo, Holly Shepherd, Gareth Lewis, Greg Landon. All the photos you see in this book are a result of their efforts... Thanks also to Ryan Wheeler.

No missions are impossible on the tracks, fields or courts with KCSS Superstars!

3, 2, 1, Blast Off!!

Cross Country

This year's cross country team was superb. Most of the team made it to OHSAA this season. Did we have any doubts? No! Now coach Mr. Atkins obviously knows what he is doing. Congratulations on a job well done!

Soccer

The players on the soccer team this year were so good that they didn't even need to go to practice (at least that's what they thought). Mr. Johnston and Mr. Janzi tried to persuade them to go to practice by buying them pizza if they all showed up.

Field Hockey

We can always depend on our field hockey team to make us proud. They have been first in York Region for two out of the last three years. At OHSAA last year, Ms. Balitha showed her spirit by dying her hair green. Team motto: BEAT IT!

Tennis

Despite valiant efforts, the 1991 tennis team failed to make it to the York Region championships. David Keenan, Jeff Carpenter, Lou Martellochi and Loana King show this season. Mr. Robson thanks the players for a great season.

Both math and basketball have strategy and a plan of attack, with their skill and talent these teams will soar....

To Infinity and Beyond

Mercury's Midgets

The midget boys basketball team, under the watchful eye of Mr. Ellison, had a good season this year. They displayed talent and devotion to the sport that is sure to help them succeed in the future. Good work boys!!

Jupiter's Juniors

On their way to the top, the Junior basketball team flew under the watchful guidance of Mr. Johnston (despite his absence from the team photo). Hard work and dedication sure pay off... way to go team!

Saturn's Seniors

The senior boys basketball team had a season to remember, they travelled to Orlando this year to participate in a tournament. With many seniors leaving, the trip was a perfect way to end their high school careers.

Meteor Math Lab

An amazing group of senior students put in their time to help out younger students. By being available at lunch, students can be tutored in math and get help with their homework.

Left: Ahhh ... the softer side of basketball! Lee and his brand new Sea World whale seem to be having a good time.

Left: The long, long ride home! On the way home from their Florida excursion, the senior basketball team decided to take a time out.

Above: I just want to fly! Vince Lamberti drills another one in the basket.

Left: What's that bunky? I didn't know you could shoot hoops that high!

Right: Run Kim, run! Kim says that before every game, the team gets together in the changeroom and meditates. Anything to win the game!

Below Middle: 4 more! 3 more! 2 more! So this is what it takes to get in shape and kick some serious butt on the football field. Come on guys, keep it up. 4 more...

Right: On Thursday October 9, the mighty LIONS conquered Williams by a huge margin. It's no wonder considering the brute force exhibited by these players.

Way Above: In the Junior's Game, after the Pop Rally, the team showed strong defense. Combined with the exceptional offense, the team went on to victory. Nice tackle, #82!

Above: Jinx! Oh wait, that's our team. Each of our girls sink every foul shot because they practice for hours, much to their dismay.

Above: Up up in the the Sky...in a sea of the opposition Kerri stares longingly at the ball. With her gunts, we know she'll get her hands on it sooner rather than later.

Right: The Midget Girls Basketball Team psyches out the rest by screaming a King City cheer. Sometimes they mess it up, but hey, that just gives them character and makes the opposing team REALLY scared.

Girls Basketball and Boys Football: Battle of Two Galaxies

They both involve a ball and a little bit of skill (?) but which one rules our school?

The basketball team is having a great season so far (except for the 13-40 loss against Vaughan). "Our major rivals are the Chicago Bulls," says Kim Madel. "But they never seem to have time to play us. I think they're afraid."

We asked the midgets if they had any interesting rituals. Raj Manocha the assistant coach said "We usually screw up a cheer or two before each game, and someone always shoots on the wrong basket." GO MIDGETS!

At press time, both football teams were going "Full the way!" The senior team ranked in the top 10 of the Toronto Star's sports listing, and the seniors offensive lineup is well known as the strongest in the region. Not to be ignored, the juniors are having a stellar season. During a gruelling snowstorm they still throw the ball around. Only time will tell Harn's a challenge to a leader of the seniors who can run faster, swim farther and skate harder?

Uncontrollable Forces

Slope Riders

Okay, so these guys didn't quite make it to the Olympics this year but they sure did put forth a great effort. Who knows, maybe with another four years of practise they will be representing Canada in Salt Lake City for the 2002 Olympics.

Model Magic

Shopping malls lend clothing and accessories to KCSS so that STAND and the Introduction to Fashion course can put on a fundraising fashion show. Ethnic aspects are added to some areas of the show to give it a more rounded feel.

Birdie Wackers

Lots and lots of practices at lunch and after school allowed this year's junior badminton team to be well prepared for their exhausting season. We don't know the results of their efforts yet, so we are assuming that they did well.

More Birdie Wackers

Like the juniors, the senior badminton team put a lot of effort and dedication into their practising. We hope that they did well this season. They must have though they're from KCSS!!

Participants in the Fashion Show

This is a picture of some of the people participating in the fashion show. Unfortunately not everyone was present for the picture, but we caught them during one of their bus rehearsals. Unfortunately there are too many people to list to name. Best of luck to those participating in the fashion show!

Senior Spikers

The senior girls volleyball team has done extremely well this year, thanks to the coaching efforts of Mr. Reid (BIGGIE). Good luck to the girls in the playoffs!
 "I can't stop this feeling, deep inside of me. . ."

Junior Jumpers

The junior girls volleyball team had a successful season this year. They went undefeated for most of their season until the ski trip caused them to lose some valuable players for the tournament.

Mighty Midget

The midget girls volleyball team had a fun season and at press time had advanced to the quarter finals. All of the girls put forth a great effort and made the season lots of fun for everyone. Good job girls.

VIP

VIP is a student volunteer program. This year they helped out a food bank, where they sorted food, stomped on bugs, got lost in limbo-land, & found an interesting way clean the feet!! They also tutor young students at KCPS.

Right: Before the game is the only time you'll see Jamie and Jay calm and collected.

Below: Here's one of the stars in action. King is in control of the game, as usual.

Right: Jamie is getting a little too close to Chris for Jay's liking, but Chris doesn't seem to mind. Look at that big grin on his face.

Right: These are the only two spectators who seem to show up every time. You'll usually see them giving out the water bottles.

Swinging Os. Slashing...

Galactic Golf Team

Junior shine, some dedicated members of the golf team stayed out here putting away. Despite a very short season, many of the members did very well in their competitions. Mike Ruffolo had some great games, with particularly low scores, which ironically is the whole point of golf. Mr. McLeod was their fearless leader and wishes them all good luck. He hopes to see everyone out again next year, with another great season. Special mention goes to the two female members, Angela Gianatti and Kristy Cork.

Enticing Hockey Teams

There seems to be nothing better to do in King City than play hockey, and maybe its for that reason that our teams are doing so well. Thanks to our senior team's coaches, Fezz and Mr. Bucholtz, they got the team caught in the "wolf trap". We are lacking some funding, since the guys are looking slick in pinnies at their away games. A combo of great goal tending, defence and forwards has led to great games, like their 6-1 win against MacKenzie. It led them to the playoffs. Mrs. Mitchell and Mr. Wright coach our Junior boys. They're just another one of King's success stories. Even after grueling morning practices, our girls team, led by Ms. Ramer, show the true meaning of Girl Power.

Taking Other-Worldly Measures...

Exam stress heats up King City, despite the bitter cold.

Exams are a major annoyance in every teenage life, but we learn to deal. Some of us more desperate folks spend the night before our exams trying to cram everything we've learned into our now frazzled minds. Other students, more stud savvy people, have already started studying weeks before. (Well, we don't believe this, but our teachers say it's true.) This year we had yet another disturbance thrown into our lives. The exam schedule was tentative, based on the fact that our exams overlapped a religious holiday. This meant that students spent all of Wednesday night studying and then found out that their Thursday exam was postponed until Friday! After many hours of studying and many more of writing, exams were officially over. (Now all we have to deal with is the results, but that's another story...)

Clockwise from above: 1) Jenn, Anne, Erin and Sarah are thanking the cosmos for the fact that their exams were postponed 'til Friday. Shouldn't you be studying?? 2) Taking time off to enjoy a drink at the plaza. 3) Steve, Matt, Raph and Lee look a little too relaxed for exam week, I guess they already wrote the Calculus exam!! 4) Hey Matt, you look a little overwhelmed!! 5) Jen, Michelle, Chris and Bryan are cramming in the caf before their exam. 6) These fine young students look a little too confident.

Right: KCSS finest, students and staff, play for a receptive crowd.

Everyone has a hometown, and it is a huge part of who they are and their identity. Whether it's Tower Burgers, The Kleinburg Market, or The Plaza, we're all proud of our local hangouts. Even though we spend time apart, doing our own thing, in the burgs, the Oaks, or anywhere else, King City is the one place where we all come together in the end. These are the many members of this community that make it so diverse, but at the same time, united.

THE GREAT BEYOND

What else can compare to hanging out at the strip on Highway 7...

everyone's fast

food heaven.

Top: Erin Cookson and Stephanie Ceci celebrate after another field hockey win.

Above: "Here come the Men In Black"... or in this case it's green and blue for Graham Scully and Rob Duncan

Left: Michelle and Dave can prove they know the true meaning of quality time by spending every second of the day together.

For some of us our lives at KING have just begun.
 For others, this yearbook represents the end of one of the many stages in our lives. Through the laughter and tears we will look back on our time at King and realize that this experience was indeed OUT OF
THIS WORLD.
